Venezuela Asks Cuban Blockade

Hemispheric Action Sought By Betancourt

CARACAS (UPI) — President Romulo Betancourt called Tuesday for an air and naval blockade of Communist Cuba to prevent from exporting arms and revolution.

Betancourt's call for hemispheric action against Fidel Castro came as new scattered violence flared anew in Venezuela and President-elect Raul Leoni awaited official confirmation of his election to the presidency.

It also coincided with a Washington decision by the Organization of American States to investigate Venezuelan charges of aggression against Cuba.

The OAS council voted 16-0 to appoint a five-nation investigating committee to study the charges.

Second Call For Action

Betancourt's call for action against Cuba was his second in a week. The first came after Venezuelan confirmation of suspicions that a three-ton shipment of arms and munitions found buried on a lonely Venezuelan beach last month originated in Cuba.

Speaking to foreign newsmen here to cover the elections, Betancourt also called on all hemisphere nations to break diplomatic relations with Cuba. Only five — Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Mexico and Uruguay — still retain such contacts with the Castro regime.

Earlier, in a resumption of the Cuban-backed terrorist war against Betancourt, one man was killed and another wounded when a bomb-rigged car exploded in the Catia market area.

Oil Tanks Set Afire

An armed group set fire Monday to seven storage tanks of the American-owned Mene Grande Oil Co., at El Tigre in eastern Venezuela causing damages estimated at $250,000.

An American Embassy spokesman Tuesday expressed "deep concern" over the fate of kidnaped U. S. Army Col. James K. Chenault of Sherman, Tex., captured by armed terrorists last Wednesday. The spokesman said it was hoped the government, with the elections over, would redouble its efforts to find Chenault.

Ruby's Trial Is Postponed Until Feb. 3

Oswald Slayer's Defense And State Agree To Delay

DALLAS (AP) — Night club owner Jack Ruby's trial on charges of murdering John F. Kennedy's accused assassin now is set for Feb. 3.

Judge Joe B. Brown reset the trial, originally scheduled for Monday, by agreement with Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and defense attorney Tom Howard who said they had not completed their cases.

Ruby shot Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin, in view of a nationwide television audience Nov. 24 as Oswald was being transferred from one jail to another.

FBI Tipped Off

The Justice Department in Washington said an anonymous tip had been given the FBI Dallas office that an attempt would be made on Oswald's life, and this tip was passed directly to Police Chief Jesse Curry. The police chief has said numerous warnings of this type had been sounded, and therefore he had ordered an armored car to be used, but Oswald never reached it.

An FBI investigation into the assassination and its subsequent events neared completion. Washington sources said it will picture Oswald as a gunman who operated alone and who had no connection with Ruby.

State Probe Slated

Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr has put his staff to work in drawing the groundwork for the state investigation of the deaths of Kennedy, Oswald and patrolman J. D. Tippit. Oswald had been charged with slaying Tippit soon after Kennedy was assassinated.

Carr said his investigation will supplement that of a special presidential investigating committee and the FBI.

Carr plans to hold a court of inquiry, a legal means to obtain sworn testimony without taking a case to trial.

Rail Unions To Challenge Law In Court

Five Groups Plan Attempt To Upset Arbitration Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) Five railroad unions facing the loss of thousands of members' jobs plan a multiple legal attack on a compulsory arbitration ruling Congress initiated to keep the nation's trains running.

The chiefs of the five unions whose members operate trains also said Tuesday they will challenge the constitutional right of Congress to order compulsory settlement of any labor dispute.

"The question of employe servitude to protect management's profits does not relate to railroad workers alone," they said in a joint statement.

"The public in general and the labor movement in particular should be concerned with the grave precedents involved."

Suit Deadline Friday

Friday is the deadline for the unions to file suits on their charges that last Tuesday's arbitration board ruling exceeded the limits Congress set in creating the board to avert a nationwide rail strike.

The unions said there will probably be several suits filed by different combinations of the five unions.

The constitutionality of the emergency law passed by Congress last August a few hours before a scheduled strike will be challenged in a separate suit by the five unions later, the unions said.

The unions said they feared that other issues, including wages, which Congress left to negotiation between the two parties, may also wind up in compulsory arbitration.

Labor Members Dissented

The two labor members of the seven-man arbitration board, including one of the union chiefs in Tuesday's joint action, dissented from the majority ruling.

The two management members, including the chief railroad negotiator, J. E. Wolfe, agreed to the decision as did the three neutral board members.

The majority ruling said the nearly 200 railroads involved may eventually eliminate 90 per cent of the 40,000 firemen's jobs on diesel freight and yard locomotives. Job protection was stipulated for the remaining 10 per cent.

The board told the two parties they should settle the other major issue — the size of train crews—but provided for compulsory settlement on a local basis wherever the railroads and the unions cannot agree. This issue involves a review of another estimated 50,000 jobs and the possible elimination of some.

LBJ Shoots For Under $103 Billion

Spending Program May Exceed JFK's, Governors Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is attempting to work out a federal budget ranging between $98 billion and $103 billion for the 1965 fiscal year starting next July 1, the White House said Tuesday.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger gave this range of figures to newsmen, he said, to try to get the matter of the budget into perspective.

This effort followed a conference between Johnson and nine governors and word from Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio quoting the chief executive as saying the budget may go above $100 billion.

For Johnson, who has pledged his administration to thrift and frugality, this would mean a record spending program for either wartime or peacetime.

The largest amount ever spent in one year was in 1945, the year World War II ended. The figure: $98.3 billion.

May Exceed Kennedy's

The late President Kennedy submitted to Congress last January a budget calling for expenditure of $98.8 billion in the current fiscal year. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon has said actual spending probably will be about $1 billion below that, and thus not a record.

Rhodes said Johnson had told nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference that his budget probably will have to go higher than Kennedy's last one and that probably he would have to explain that to Congress.

Perhaps Johnson gave something of a tipoff to his explanation in his first address to Congress as President Nov. 27. He pledged at that time that "the government will be administered with the utmost thrift and frugality" and that he will insist on a dollar's value for a dollar spent.

Then he added: "This does not mean we will not meet our unfilled needs or that we will not honor our commitments. We will do both."

$108 Million Is Requested

Rhodes said Johnson had told the governors that in the budget that goes to Congress next month for the fiscal year starting next July 1, Kennedy had been dealing with requests totaling $108 billion.

Another governor, Colorado's John A. Love, told reporters Johnson had said he thinks he will be able to reduce by $3 billion the budget Kennedy would have submitted next month. But there was no word as to what figure Johnson would start with to make the cut.

A tax cut was one item Johnson discussed with Democratic congressional leaders Tuesday. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Democratic leader, said he had informed Johnson the Senate Finance Committee will finish public hearings on the tax plan Friday or Monday and start work at once on drafting its version of a bill.

The House already has passed the tax bill.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Johnson hopes the Senate will debate the tax measure while the House is handling civil rights legislation.

Civil rights figured in other presidential conferences Tuesday. In one of a series of sessions with civil rights leaders, the President met with the Rev.

Admitted Spy Who Became Informer Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Elizabeth Bentley, 55, the apostate Communist spy who helped unmask a web of wartime Red treachery in this country, died quietly Tuesday.

After renouncing communism Miss Bentley served as government witness at two of the anti-Communist trials of the 1950s—the atom spy trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and the perjury trial of William Remington.

Miss Bentley had been in Grace-New Haven Hospital since Nov. 18 and underwent abdominal surgery Monday. Before she became ill, she had been teaching English in a Middletown, Conn., school for girls.

Her life was one of turbulent cloak-and-dagger contrasts.

Miss Bentley had neither the looks nor the inclination for the traditional role of Mata Hari, the World War I German spy who employed sex for purposes of espionage. She was a round-faced, rather plain New Englander. The great love of her life was a hopeless one.

She pictured her role during World War II as that of stealthy courier for the Soviet underground in this country, spurred on in her espionage duties by her ardor for Jacob Golos, then chief of Red secret police in the United States. He disdained the institution of marriage.

"You were his mistress, were you not?" Miss Bentley once was asked on the witness stand.

She flushed as she replied: "If you care to put it that way. From a Communist standpoint it was marriage."

Golos died in 1943, and two years later Miss Bentley walked into the FBI office in New Haven to renounce communism and began a new career as government informer and witness against American Communist conspirators.

Later she said she had broken with communism because of a "good old New England conscience."

Thompson Son Disputes Story Of Star Witness

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — T. Eugene Thompson's 14-year-old son went to the witness stand in his father's defense Tuesday and contradicted the story told by a vodka-gulping salesman who admitted he fatally bludgeoned and stabbed the boy's mother.

Jeffrey Thompson, wearing his uniform of the St. Paul Military Academy, testified as the final defense witness in his father's trial on charges of masterminding the murder of Mrs. Carol Thompson, 34.

Both the prosecution and the defense in Thompson's trial on a charge of first degree murder rested their cases at 4:44 p.m. EST.

Judge Rolf Fosseen recessed the trial until Thursday and expressed hope that closing arguments and his instructions could be delivered in time to place the case in the hands of the jury Thursday night.

The youth's testimony was a defense effort to give the lie to Dick W. C. Anderson, the admitted killer of the St. Paul heiress housewife and mother of four.

Jeffrey told the Hennepin District Court jury that on the morning of March 6 — the day his mother was slain in the Thompson's fashionable home—he went downstairs and turned off a recreation room light.

He also testified that his father ate a full, leisurely breakfast with the family before going off to his office.

Anderson, the state's star witness in its attempt to send Thompson to prison for life as the mastermind in Carol's slaying, testified earlier in the trial that he waited in the Thompson basement for more than two hours before going upstairs and fatally beating Mrs. Thompson.

OAS Will Probe Cuba Smuggling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States launched a full-scale investigation Tuesday into charges that "intervention and aggression" by Cuba in Venezuela are endangering that country's democratic institutions.

Venezuela asked the OAS to look into Cuban smuggling of arms to Venezuela, acting under the Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance.

The OAS Council approved the Venezuelan request by a 16-0 vote, with Mexico abstaining on legal grounds. By the same vote it also empowered OAS Chairman Juan Bautista de Lavalle of Peru to appoint a fact-finding committee.

The OAS announced the committee would be made up of representatives from the United States, Argentina, Colombia, Costa Rica and Uruguay.

Khrushchev Echoes LBJ's Peace Pledges

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared Tuesday night the Soviet Union will match President Johnson's pledges to work for a more secure world peace.

The Soviet leader said:

"We note with satisfaction that Lyndon Johnson, the new President of the United States, speaking of his intentions to continue President Kennedy's policy, emphasized he would strive for a peaceful solution of international relations and for better relations between the Soviet Union and all countries.

"As regards the Soviet Union, it will not relax its efforts in search of a solution to major international problems and will press for the further consolidation of relations with other countries."

Khrushchev gave this pledge at a farewell dinner in the Finnish Embassy for visiting President Urho Kekkonen.

The Finnish president came to the Soviet Union on an unoffical visit.

Pope Decrees New Powers For Bishops

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI relaxed Vatican controls over the Roman Catholic Church's 3,000 bishops Tuesday by making permanent many of their transitory rights and privileges.

In a personal decree entitled "The Pastoral Task," the Pope freed his bishops from the necessity of seeking Vatican authorization in the exercise of certain functions.

The Pope's action was considered a first step in decentralizing the concentrated power of the Roman Curia, his network of administrative agencies. It also represents a limited step toward sharing papal-episcopal authority.

The concept of sharing, called collegiality, has been a major issue at the nine-week second session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council. Pope Paul's decree appeared to support progressive bishops who favored the concept. Conservatives had opposed it.

The Roman Catholic ruler specifically granted the bishops 40 faculties or powers and seven privileges that previously had been given only on application to the Vatican, either on an individual or renewable five-year basis. He also extended them one new privilege.

The decree was in the form of an apostolic letter read in St. Peter's in the presence of the Pope and 2,100 prelates attending the council, which adjourns Wednesday until next September.

The provisions go into effect Dec. 8.

The new privilege extended by the decree, formerly belonging only to cardinals, permits all bishops to preach and hear confessions anywhere in the world instead of only in their own dioceses.

Largely technical, the decree dealt with dispensations in unusual cases concerning the Mass, handicapped priests, and complicated marriages.

Dynamite Found Near New Senate Office Building

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Capitol police Chief Charles J. Sullivan disclosed Tuesday that five sticks of dynamite and four explosive caps were found beside a trash can near the new Senate Office Building early Monday.

Sullivan said the explosives, wrapped in a newspaper, were turned over to Army demolition experts at Ft. McNair for examination. A thorough search of the area revealed no trace of other dynamite or any other suspicious signs, Sullivan said.

220 Americans Winging Home From Viet Nam

SAIGON, Wednesday (UPI)—Three U.S. Air Force jet transports flew 220 U.S. military men out of South Viet Nam toward home Tuesday. A fourth plane developed engine trouble on Okinawa, and 74 other men were stranded here until today.

The 294 men are the first of 1,000 U.S. military advisers who expect to be home for Christmas. Two other flights have been scheduled during the next nine days.

When the news was announced that the fourth plane would be delayed the 74 men lined up on the hot runway in the tropical sun waiting for it filed back to the airport's main terminal to spend another night in Saigon.

Military sources here did not take the scheduled 1,000-man reduction as a sign the war against the Viet Cong guerrillas is going better or that the U.S. military effort is easing off. A total of 15,500 Americans remain.

The men sent home were not advisers to Vietnamese combat units. All were from training, technical, supply and support elements, and their places will be filled by trained Vietnamese troops.

Pan Am Plans 2-1 Stock Split

NEW YORK (UPI) — The board of directors of Pan American World Airways Tuesday proposed a two-for-one stock split, raised the quarterly dividend on present shares and granted stockholders the right to buy an estimated $60 million worth of new debentures.

The board voted to increase the dividend to 30 cents a share from 20 cents paid in previous quarters. The higher dividend is payable Feb. 19, 1964 to holders of record Jan. 29.

At the same time the Pan American board authorized a large new offering of convertible subordinated debentures to stockholders of record on or about Jan. 7.

In announcing the board actions, President Juan T. Trippe said the proposed stock split will be submitted to a stockholder vote at the May annual meeting.

Yeager Takes First Ride In Weird 'Flying Bathtub'

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Air Force Col. Charles Yeager, first man to go faster than sound, made his first flight Tuesday in a weird, wingless "flying bathtub" M2 that may become the space chute of the future.

"She handles great," Yeager said after the flight. "You'll see a lot of these in eight or 10 years."

"I think the M2 will fill a gap between the Mercury capsule and the X20, Dyna-Soar space glider. It should be very helpful in re-entry research."

Yeager, 40, commandant of the aerospace research pilot school, flew the experimental M2 to see if it would help train future astronauts.

The M2, which looks like a bullet cut in half with the pilot canopy on the flat top side, was developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as a vehicle which could ferry men or equipment back from space stations.

For Tuesday's flight, Yeager and the M2 were towed to a height of 9,000 feet.

There Yeager cut loose from the tow plane.

The 20-foot M2 was made without wings to reduce the surface area exposed to air friction. Small tail surfaces on either side give it some stability and directional control.

When he had dropped to a few feet above the ground, Yeager tilted the craft's nose in a flare-out to reduce his 135-m.p.h. descent to 80 m.p.h., then landed on the M2's tricycle gear. He rolled to a stop in about 300 feet.

Baltimore Dairies Raise Milk Prices

BALTIMORE (AP) — Milk price increases by three Baltimore dairies were disclosed Tuesday, and City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman named a committee to investigate them.

Sealtest and Green Spring Dairies raised the price of home-delivered milk from 53 to 54 cents per half-gallon jug. Cloverland Farms left its home half-gallon price at 53 cents but increased its store milk price by 2 cents.

Pressman announced a few hours later he had named James F. Fanseen chairman of a three-member committee to investigate "the cause of the increase to determine whether it is justified."

Pressman said the committee's first meeting will be held Wednesday.

Two Vietnamese Human Torches

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Two Vietnamese men committed suicide by fire Tuesday, adding for unannounced reasons to a wave of self-immolations begun last June 11 by a Buddhist Monk, Thich Quang Duc. Neither was identified.

One man, so emaciated police deduced he had been very ill, burned himself to death in the seclusion of a suburban cemetery. School children found his charred corpse.

The second man set fire to his gasoline-soaked clothing on a street corner a half block from the residence of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Before a crowd of hundreds, he burned for 15 minutes. This dressed in a black calico shirt and trousers, normal apparel for a Vietnamese peasant or working man.

Kennedy Death Probe Commission To Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren announced Tuesday the commission to investigate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will hold its first meeting Thursday.

The meeting, in the conference room of the National Archives Building, will be to organize the work and procedures of the commission. The session will be closed.

President Johnson appointed the special commission last Friday, asking that it develop all possible facts about the assassination and lay its findings before the American people.

He named Warren to head the seven-member group.

Protestants Told JFK's Religion "A Strength"

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Protestant church leaders paid tribute to the late President Kennedy Tuesday night as "a good Catholic whose religion proved to be a strength rather than a handicap."

More than 5,000 men and women, representing 32 major denominations and all sections of the country, took part in a memorial service for Kennedy at the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church and former president of the National Council of Churches, noted in the principal address that Kennedy was the "first member of the Roman Catholic church to be elected President of the United States."

He bluntly reminded the Protestant leaders that there was "considerable discussion" during the 1960 campaign about the ability of a Catholic to serve as president of all the people, without showing favoritism to his own church."

"Short as was John Kennedy's time in office," said Dr. Blake, "it was long enough to make it abundantly clear that those who had feared a Roman Catholic president had misunderstood both the man and his church.

"John Kennedy by his actions as President demonstrated that he was indeed a good Catholic, but more — that his kind of Christianity was a strength rather than a handicap to his serving the whole people of the whole nation under the Constitution and under God."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Milk price increases by three Baltimore dairies were disclosed Tuesday, and City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman named a committee to investigate them.

Sealtest and Green Spring Dairies raised the price of home-delivered milk from 53 to 54 cents per half-gallon jug. Cloverland Farms left its home half-gallon price at 53 cents but increased its store milk price by 2 cents.

Pressman announced a few hours later he had named James F. Fanseen chairman of a three - member committee to investigate "the cause of the increase to determine whether it is justified."

Pressman said the committee's first meeting will be held Wednesday.

Two Vietnamese Human Torches

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Two Vietnamese men committed suicide by fire Tuesday, adding for unannounced reasons to a wave of self-immolations begun last June 11 by a Buddhist Monk, Thich Quang Duc. Neither was identified.

One man, so emaciated police deduced he had been very ill, burned himself to death in the seclusion of a suburban cemetery. School children found his charred corpse.

The second man set fire to his gasoline-soaked clothing on a street corner a half block from the residence of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Before a crowd of hundreds, he burned for 15 minutes. This dressed in a black calico shirt and trousers, normal apparel for a Vietnamese peasant or working man.

Rail Unions To Challenge Law In Court

Five Groups Plan Attempt To Upset Arbitration Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) Five railroad unions facing the loss of thousands of members' jobs plan a multiple legal attack on a compulsory arbitration ruling Congress initiated to keep the nation's trains running.

The chiefs of the five unions whose members operate trains also said Tuesday they will challenge the constitutional right of Congress to order compulsory settlement of any labor dispute.

"The question of employe servitude to protect management's profits does not relate to railroad workers alone," they said in a joint statement.

"The public in general and the labor movement in particular should be concerned with the grave precedents involved."

Suit Deadline Friday

Friday is the deadline for the unions to file suits on their charges that last Tuesday's arbitration board ruling exceeded the limits Congress set in creating the board to avert a nationwide rail strike.

The unions said there will probably be several suits filed by different combinations of the five unions.

The constitutionality of the emergency law passed by Congress last August a few hours before a scheduled strike will be challenged in a separate suit by the five unions later, the unions said.

The unions said they feared that other issues, including wages, which Congress left to negotiation between the two parties, may also wind up in compulsory arbitration.

Labor Members Dissented

The two labor members of the seven-man arbitration board, including one of the union chiefs in Tuesday's joint action, dissented from the majority ruling.

The two management members, including the chief railroad negotiator, J. E. Wolfe, agreed to the decision as did the three neutral board members.

The majority ruling said the nearly 200 railroads involved may eventually eliminate 90 per cent of the 40,000 firemen's jobs on diesel freight and yard locomotives. Job protection was stipulated for the remaining 10 per cent.

The board told the two parties they should settle the other major issue — the size of train crews—but provided for compulsory settlement on a local basis wherever the railroads and the unions cannot agree. This issue involves a review of another estimated 50,000 jobs and the possible elimination of some.

Pan Am Plans 2-1 Stock Split

NEW YORK (UPI) — The board of directors of Pan American World Airways Tuesday proposed a two-for-one stock split, raised the quarterly dividend on present shares and granted stockholders the right to buy an estimated $60 million worth of new debentures.

The board voted to increase the dividend to 30 cents a share from 20 cents paid in previous quarters. The higher dividend is payable Feb. 19, 1964 to holders of record Jan. 29.

At the same time the Pan American board authorized a large new offering of convertible subordinated debentures to stockholders of record on or about Jan. 7.

In announcing the board actions, President Juan T. Trippe said the proposed stock split will be submitted to a stockholder vote at the May annual meeting.

Kennedy Death Probe Commission To Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren announced Tuesday the commission to investigate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will hold its first meeting Thursday.

The meeting, in the conference room of the National Archives Building, will be to organize the work and procedures of the commission. The session will be closed.

President Johnson appointed the special commission last Friday, asking that it develop all possible facts about the assassination and lay its findings before the American people.

He named Warren to head the seven-member group.

EX-RED SPY DIES — Elizabeth Bently (above), admitted Communist spy during World War II, died yesterday in a New Haven, Conn., hospital. She was 55. Miss Bentley, a native of Connecticut, helped expose Red espionage in this country after renouncing communism 18 years ago. (AP Photofax)

Admitted Spy Who Became Informer Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Elizabeth Bentley, 55, the apostate Communist spy who helped unmask a web of wartime Red treachery in this country, died quietly Tuesday.

After renouncing communism Miss Bentley served as government witness at two of the anti-Communist trials of the 1950s—the atom spy trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and the perjury trial of William Remington.

Miss Bentley had been in Grace-New Haven Hospital since Nov. 18 and underwent abdominal surgery Monday. Before she became ill, she had been teaching English in a Middletown, Conn., school for girls.

Her life was one of turbulent cloak-and-dagger contrasts.

Miss Bentley had neither the looks nor the inclination for the traditional role of Mata Hari, the World War I German spy who employed sex for purposes of espionage. She was a round-faced, rather plain New Englander. The great love of her life was a hopeless one.

She pictured her role during World War II as that of stealthy courier for the Soviet underground in this country, spurred on in her espionage duties by her ardor for Jacob Golos, then chief of Red secret police in the United States. He disdained the institution of marriage.

"You were his mistress, were you not?" Miss Bentley once was asked on the witness stand.

She flushed as she replied: "If you care to put it that way. From a Communist standpoint it was marriage."

Golos died in 1943, and two years later Miss Bentley walked into the FBI office in New Haven to renounce communism and began a new career as government informer and witness against American Communist conspirators.

Later she said she had broken with communism because of a "good old New England conscience."

LBJ Shoots For Under $103 Billion

Spending Program May Exceed JFK's, Governors Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is attempting to work out a federal budget ranging between $98 billion and $103 billion for the 1965 fiscal year starting next July 1, the White House said Tuesday.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger gave this range of figures to newsmen, he said, to try to get the matter of the budget into perspective.

This effort followed a conference between Johnson and nine governors and word from Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio quoting the chief executive as saying the budget may go above $100 billion.

For Johnson, who has pledged his administration to thrift and frugality, this would mean a record spending program for either wartime or peacetime.

The largest amount ever spent in one year was in 1945, the year World War II ended. The figure: $98.3 billion.

May Exceed Kennedy's

The late President Kennedy submitted to Congress last January a budget calling for expenditure of $98.8 billion in the current fiscal year. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon has said actual spending probably will be about $1 billion below that, and thus not a record.

Rhodes said Johnson had told nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference that his budget probably will have to go higher than Kennedy's last one and that probably he would have to explain that to Congress.

Perhaps Johnson gave something of a tipoff to his explanation in his first address to Congress as President Nov. 27. He pledged at that time that "the government will be administered with the utmost thrift and frugality" and that he will insist on a dollar's value for a dollar spent.

Then he added: "This does not mean we will not meet our unfilled needs or that we will not honor our commitments. We will do both."

$108 Million Is Requested

Rhodes said Johnson had told the governors that in the budget that goes to Congress next month for the fiscal year starting next July 1, Kennedy had been dealing with requests totaling $108 billion.

Another governor, Colorado's John A. Love, told reporters Johnson had said he thinks he will be able to reduce by $3 billion the budget Kennedy would have submitted next month. But there was no word as to what figure Johnson would start with to make the cut.

A tax cut was one item Johnson discussed with Democratic congressional leaders Tuesday. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Democratic leader, said he had informed Johnson the Senate Finance Committee will finish public hearings on the tax plan Friday or Monday and start work at once on drafting its version of a bill.

The House already has passed the tax bill.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Johnson hopes the Senate will debate the tax measure while the House is handling civil rights legislation.

Civil rights figured in other presidential conferences Tuesday. In one of a series of sessions with civil rights leaders, the President met with the Rev.

Yeager Takes First Ride In Weird 'Flying Bathtub'

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Air Force Col. Charles Yeager, first man to go faster than sound, made his first flight Tuesday in a weird, wingless "flying bathtub" M2 that may become the space chute of the future.

"She handles great," Yeager said after the flight. "You'll see a lot of these in eight or 10 years."

"I think the M2 will fill a gap between the Mercury capsule and the X20, Dyna-Soar space glider. It should be very helpful in re-entry research."

Yeager, 40, commandant of the aerospace research pilot school, flew the experimental M2 to see if it would help train future astronauts.

The M2, which looks like a bullet cut in half with the pilot canopy on the flat top side, was developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as a vehicle which could ferry men or equipment back from space stations.

For Tuesday's flight, Yeager and the M2 were towed to a height of 9,000 feet.

There Yeager cut loose from the tow plane.

The 20-foot M2 was made without wings to reduce the surface area exposed to air friction. Small tail surfaces on either side give it some stability and directional control.

When he had dropped to a few feet above the ground, Yeager tilted the craft's nose in a flare-out to reduce his 135-m.p.h. descent to 80 m.p.h., then landed on the M2's tricycle gear. He rolled to a stop in about 300 feet.

Protestants Told JFK's Religion "A Strength"

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Protestant church leaders paid tribute to the late President Kennedy Tuesday night as "a good Catholic whose religion proved to be a strength rather than a handicap."

More than 5,000 men and women, representing 32 major denominations and all sections of the country, took part in a memorial service for Kennedy at the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church and former president of the National Council of Churches, noted in the principal address that Kennedy was the "first member of the Roman Catholic church to be elected President of the United States."

He bluntly reminded the Protestant leaders that there was "considerable discussion" during the 1960 campaign about the ability of a Catholic to serve as president of all the people, without showing favoritism to his own church."

"Short as was John Kennedy's time in office," said Dr. Blake, "it was long enough to make it abundantly clear that those who had feared a Roman Catholic president had misunderstood both the man and his church.

"John Kennedy by his actions as President demonstrated that he was indeed a good Catholic, but more — that his kind of Christianity was a strength rather than a handicap to his serving the whole people of the whole nation under the Constitution and under God."

Secret Service Agent Receives Treasury Medal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy looked on while Secret Service agent Clinton J. Hill received the Treasury's highest award Tuesday for "exceptional bravery" during the assassination attack on the late president.

With other members of the Kennedy family, she came to watch Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon present a gold medal and citation to the handsome, brown-haired, agent who has been assigned to protecting Mrs. Kennedy since shortly after the 1960 election. He is 31.

Dillon said Hill's actions added luster and a new page to the "great tradition of courage and heroism" of the Secret Service, which comes under his department.

He noted the agent was "doubly honored" by Mrs. Kennedy's presence at the ceremony.

The citation said Hill had been standing on the running board of a car just behind the presidential limousine when the assassin fired his first shot in downtown Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22.

With the bullets still being fired, the citation noted, Hill "climbed on the rear of the president's rapidly moving limousine, shielded the president and Mrs. Kennedy with his own body."

It said his "extraordinary courage and heroic effort in the face of maximum danger" earned him the coveted medal, which is about the size of a half-dollar.

In an ante-room beforehand, Mrs. Kennedy had a brief chance to greet Hill; his wife, Gwen; and their two blond sons, Chris, 7, and Cory, 2.

The former First Lady made no public comment at the ceremony.

The White House said, though, that she previously had sent Hill a personal note regarding his efforts to protect her and the late president.

Virginia Senator Involved In Fatal Auto Accident

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A 63-year-old woman was struck and killed Tuesday in an accident involving a car driven by state Sen. Charles R. Fenwick.

Police said they were uncertain whether a truck struck Ruth Ramsey before she was struck by the car driven by Fenwick.

"There is no question that Sen. Fenwick's car hit the woman, but there is a question of whether he hit her first," said Arlington Commonwealth Attorney William J. Hassan.

Police Captain Dudley Rector said the woman was walking toward Washington on the south side of Lee Highway.

Fenwick told police that he did not see the woman, but heard a thump and immediately stopped. He also told them there was a dent in the right front fender of his car which he could not explain.

No charges have been filed.

South African Curbs Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Norway proposed Tuesday a worldwide embargo aimed at crippling South Africa's arms industry in an effort to force that country to abandon its racial segregation policies.

Sivert A. Nielsen, the Norwegian delegate, introduced a resolution in the U.N. Security Council which was expected to win approval despite African does not go far enough.

Some African nations have asked for a total trade embargo against South Africa and even its expulsion from the United Nations. Others have demanded an oil embargo. But there was general recognition that such harsh penalties would run the risk of veto by the big Western powers.

The Norwegian resolution proposes the toughest Security Council action yet taken against South Africa, whose policy of apartheid, or racial segregation, has been a target in the United Nations for years.

Baltimore Slaying Suspect Captured

CHICAGO (AP)—L. V. Wade, 34, was seized by FBI agents Tuesday on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in Baltimore on charges of murder, assault and robbery.

Wade was seized while applying for a job and using the name of Arthur Bridgewater, the FBI said.

The Baltimore warrant accuses Wade of slaying John Thomas, 52, in his grocery during a robbery Aug. 11.

AF, Fairchild To Renegotiate F27 Contract

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A spokesman for Gov. Tawes said Monday Air Force officials have agreed to renegotiate a contract with Fairchild Aircraft Corp. which could prevent the loss of 600 jobs at the Hagerstown plant.

Ejner Johnson, who represented the governor at a meeting in Washington quoted company officials as saying that more favorable rental terms would enable them to continue production of the F27s, a twin-engine, turboprop commercial plane.

Fairchild leases its facilities at Hagerstown from the federal government. The amount of rent is determined, under a 1959 contract, by the amount of defense work done — the less defense work, the higher the rent.

Fairchild officials said defense work at the plant has declined steadily since 1959 and this has caused them to pay more overhead and rental costs for manufacture of commercial planes.

Johnson said Jack Garver, Fairchild general consel, told Air Force representatives, Maryland congressmen and others attending the meeting that the rental cost to the company prior to 1959 amounted to approximately $7,000 per plane. Now, he said, it is $50,000 per plane and this has made it difficult for Fairchild to compete with other commercial manufacturers.

Garver said the corporation is to make a decision by Dec. 10 whether to continue manufacture of the F27. If discontinued, it could cost 600 jobs at the plant.

Johnson said Air Force representatives agreed that the $50,000 cost per plane was "far too high" and that the formula should be renegotiated.

King told reporters he had informed Johnson that he intends to stump the country to arouse the people to register and vote, Negroes in particular. He said he plans to take several months, leading up to the 1964 election, to try to "make this country aware of its lack of representative government."

King said he is conferring on the situation surrounding the civil rights bill with other civil New York.

And he said his organization intends to take direct action in the event of an expected Senate filibuster. He did not elaborate.

"I will feel compelled to take some form of direct action," King said, "whether in Washington or all over the country."

He said he had told Johnson that further demonstrations are were halted temporarily after the assassination of President Kennedy, King said, but they are not being abandoned. He said they will be resumed in Danville, Va., and Williamston, N.C.

CHICAGO (AP) — Deaths on the nation's highways set a record in October, the National Safety Council reported Tuesday.

The month's total of 4,000 traffic deaths exceeded the previous October high of 3,985 in 1936, and was 3 per cent higher than the 3,880 deaths in October 1962.

Close Robbery Trial Begins At Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Carl Close, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, went on trial Tuesday on bank robbery charges for the third time this year.

Close, 48, of Sullivan, W.Va., already faces prison sentences totalling 63 years for his part in bank holdups in two other states and three other robberies.

He and his brother, Harold, 38, are now charged with robbing the Edmondson Village branch of the Equitable Trust Co. of $21,078 here last March 8.

The government charges that the pair wore hooded parkas as one held bank customers at bay while the other vaulted the counter and scooped money from cash drawers into a shopping bag.

A passerby found $4,141 in the bank parking lot which the bandits apparently dropped as they fled.

Robert W. Kernan, acting U.S. attorney, told Judge Harrison L. Winter in U.S. District court Tuesday that 35 prosecution witnesses would be presented in five days. A jury of seven men and five women is hearing the case.

Earlier this month, the older brother was sentenced to 25 years in prison after pleading guilty to a $6,336 June 4 robbery in Roanoke, Va.

His sister, Mrs. Betty Lou Close O'Donnell, 30, and his nephew, Vincent Charles Wintill, 19, were sentenced to six months and a day for concealing a felony and were given one year suspended sentences as accessories after the fact in the Roanoke robbery.

The elder Close also pleaded guilty Sept. 27 and was sentenced to 25 years for robbing an Anderson, S.C. bank of $28,262 less than 24 hours after being named to the FBI's list. Federal agents arrested him four minutes after the robbery.

In-Patient Care For Skid Row Alcoholics Is Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — A state psychologist told a mayor's conference on alcoholism Tuesday that a long period of in-patient care is needed in rehabilitating hundreds of alcoholics now receiving little treatment in hospitals and jails.

Some 30 federal, state and city officials are taking part in the week-long conference which is trying to solve some of the problems of alcoholism in the Baltimore area.

Sidney Wolf, research psychologist at Spring Grove State Hospital, said skid row alcoholics, Tuesday's discussion topic, have little chance of recovery under an out-patient program.

He said 60 per cent of the inmates at City Jail are drunkenness offenders. Of 400 persons treated at Spring Grove for alcoholism, he said, 62 per cent had been arrested for drunkenness.

Dr. John Hirschfeld of the State Medical Society said Baltimore's tuberculosis hospitals have large numbers of alcoholics.

Peking Claims Economy Expands Despite Blows

TOKYO (AP) — With a blast at the Soviet Union, Red China asserted Tuesday its economy is expanding despite crop failures and the loss of Soviet credits and technical aid.

A communique marking the end of the second national people's congress in Peking also declared Red China's prestige is rising abroad in spite of "the schemes of U.S. imperialism, reaction and modern revisionism." This last also was a reference to Moscow.

As broadcast from Peking, the communique conceded that floods, drought, other natural calamities and the withdrawal of Soviet aid were blows to national development.

Without mentioning the Soviet Union by name, Red China referred to the loss of the Soviet aid as "the perfidious action of those who unilaterally tore up agreements and withdrew experts."

It mentioned the debt to the Soviet Union, piled up in the days before the two giants quarreled over methods to bring the world under Communist domination.

"In 1963, our country has continued to pay the debts and the interest owed to the Soviet Union," the communique said. "We have now paid most ofthe debts incurred to the Soviet Union since 1950 and the interest due. The remaining small portion will be cleared by the end of 1965 in accordance with the agreements."

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma — the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

AF, Fairchild To Renegotiate F27 Contract

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A spokesman for Gov. Tawes said Monday Air Force officials have agreed to renegotiate a contract with Fairchild Aircraft Corp. which could prevent the loss of 600 jobs at the Hagerstown plant.

Ejner Johnson, who represented the governor at a meeting in Washington quoted company officials as saying that more favorable rental terms would enable them to continue production of the F27s, a twin-engine, turboprop commercial plane.

Fairchild leases its facilities at Hagerstown from the federal government. The amount of rent is determined, under a 1959 contract, by the amount of defense work done — the less defense work, the higher the rent.

Fairchild officials said defense work at the plant has declined steadily since 1959 and this has caused them to pay more overhead and rental costs for manufacture of commercial planes.

Johnson said Jack Garver, Fairchild general consel, told Air Force representatives, Maryland congressmen and others attending the meeting that the rental cost to the company prior to 1959 amounted to approximately $7,000 per plane. Now, he said, it is $50,000 per plane and this has made it difficult for Fairchild to compete with other commercial manufacturers.

Garver said the corporation is to make a decision by Dec. 10 whether to continue manufacture of the F27. If discontinued, it could cost 600 jobs at the plant.

Johnson said Air Force representatives agreed that the $50,000 cost per plane was "far too high" and that the formula should be renegotiated.

Up For Promotion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson Tuesday nominated Maj. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, a former White House staff member, for promotion to lieutenant general.

Virginia Senator Involved In Fatal Auto Accident

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A 63-year-old woman was struck and killed Tuesday in an accident involving a car driven by state Sen. Charles R. Fenwick.

Police said they were uncertain whether a truck struck Ruth Ramsey before she was struck by the car driven by Fenwick.

"There is no question that Sen. Fenwick's car hit the woman, but there is a question of whether he hit her first," said Arlington Commonwealth Attorney William J. Hassan.

Police Captain Dudley Rector said the woman was walking toward Washington on the south side of Lee Highway.

Fenwick told police that he did not see the woman, but heard a thump and immediately stopped. He also told them there was a dent in the right front fender of his car which he could not explain.

No charges have been filed.

South African Curbs Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Norway proposed Tuesday a worldwide embargo aimed at crippling South Africa's arms industry in an effort to force that country to abandon its racial segregation policies.

Sivert A. Nielsen, the Norwegian delegate, introduced a resolution in the U.N. Security Council which was expected to win approval despite African does not go far enough.

Some African nations have asked for a total trade embargo against South Africa and even its expulsion from the United Nations. Others have demanded an oil embargo. But there was general recognition that such harsh penalties would run the risk of veto by the big Western powers.

The Norwegian resolution proposes the toughest Security Council action yet taken against South Africa, whose policy of apartheid, or racial segregation, has been a target in the United Nations for years.

Baltimore Slaying Suspect Captured

CHICAGO (AP)—L. V. Wade, 34, was seized by FBI agents Tuesday on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in Baltimore on charges of murder, assault and robbery.

The Baltimore warrant accuses Wade of slaying John Thomas, 52, in his grocery during a robbery Aug. 11.

LBJ Shoots

Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, in what the latter called a "very fruitful session."

King told reporters he had informed Johnson that he intends to stump the country to arouse the people to register and vote, Negroes in particular. He said he plans to take several months, leading up to the 1964 election, to try to "make this country aware of its lack of representative government."

King said he is conferring on the situation surrounding the civil rights bill with other civil New York.

And he said his organization intends to take direct action in the event of an expected Senate filibuster. He did not elaborate.

"I will feel compelled to take some form of direct action," King said, "whether in Washington or all over the country."

He said he had told Johnson that further demonstrations are were halted temporarily after the assassination of President Kennedy, King said, but they are not being abandoned. He said they will be resumed in Danville, Va., and Williamston, N.C.

How Women Can Lose 2 to 7 Lbs. of Bloating 'Water-Weight' That Causes Pre-Menstrual Miseries

New Discovery Tested By Nurses on Themselves Also Relieve Swelling, Pelvic Pressure, Dizzy Spells, Pain and Its Moodiness, Nervous Tension. An Entirely New and Medically Proven Formula.

New York, N. Y. (Special) — Doctors who are specialists in women's ailments have now discovered that several days before a woman's period her system often stores up an abnormal accumulation of water—from 2 to 7 lbs. This causes body tissues to swell and results in a sudden gain of weight and abdominal puffiness.

It also causes breast soreness, headache, depression, nervous tension and dizzy spells.

But now science has developed astonishing medical help—a new tablet called Trendar®. Trendar helps prevent the build-up of harmful excess water and so promptly eliminates the bloating weight. It relieves headache, cramps and accompanying nervous tension, irritability, depression, and dizzy spells both before and during periods—in a way no pain reliever alone possibly can.

Trendar Tablets have been thoroughly tested by hundreds of Registered Nurses on themselves. Proven safe and effective when taken as directed. Now obtainable without prescription at any drug counter. Buy Trendar at once!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Here's Your Chart For Size-Selection

Which size rack is your first stopping-place when you're shopping for a dress? Why? Is it because you've always worn that particular size? Is it, perhaps a number you've chosen from a rough estimate of the number of pounds you've gained or lost since you last bought a dress?

Poor fit in dresses is inclined to go hand in hand with rough estimates. And it's an equally common problem for women who've let themselves settle into the rut of wearing the same size over a long span of years. Figure changes are inevitable, after all, between the years of youth and the years of maturity, particularly for the child-bearing woman.

The differences may emerge so gradually that they will rarely be perceptible at a casual glance. Yet, even while general size and weight remain constant, contours are altered. Redistribution of weight is the chief reason, a cause effected quite naturally by the sharp contrast in the kinds and amount of physical activity typical between the years of youth and adulthood.

Many women may also be innocently unaware of the advancements that have been made in size ranges over the years. Today's proportioned sizes were unheard of just a few years ago.

So many new figure-categories are included now in the same size-brackets that it behooves all women to experiment among them periodically, to make sure their clothes are fitted in proportion to their current contours.

Here is a chart to help you become acquainted with the new size ranges available:

Junior styles, from 3 to 15, fit short-waisted women who are between 5'4" and 5'6". These women have small, high bustlines, tiny waistlines.

Junior petites, from 3 to 15, copy junior proportions—in miniature. The women must be short, under 5'4", with very small frames.

Misses' dresses, 6 to 20, are for women of average height—between 5'5" and 5'8",—who have well-proportioned contours but longer waists than juniors.

Petites, 8 to 20, are proportioned for the short Miss, under 5'5".

Talls, 8 to 20, are tailored for women over 5'7", feature longer waists and skirts than Misses' apparel.

Half-sizes, 10½ to 26½, are designed for short women with fuller-than-Junior figures and short waists.

Women's sizes 38 to 52 follow the mature figure's contours and fit women over 5'5" with longer waists.

Only a good foundation garment will give you proper contour control. For more information on this, there is a booklet called "Figured For You." It is available through this newspaper. Address your request to me, John Robert Powers, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How Women Can Lose 2 to 7 Lbs. of Bloating 'Water-Weight' That Causes Pre-Menstrual Miseries

New Discovery Tested By Nurses on Themselves Also Relieve Swelling, Pelvic Pressure, Dizzy Spells, Pain and Its Moodiness, Nervous Tension. An Entirely New and Medically Proven Formula.

New York, N. Y. (Special) — Doctors who are specialists in women's ailments have now discovered that several days before a woman's period her system often stores up an abnormal accumulation of water—from 2 to 7 lbs. This causes body tissues to swell and results in a sudden gain of weight and abdominal puffiness.

It also causes breast soreness, headache, depression, nervous tension and dizzy spells.

But now science has developed astonishing medical help—a new tablet called Trendar®. Trendar helps prevent the build-up of harmful excess water and so promptly eliminates the bloating weight. It relieves headache, cramps and accompanying nervous tension, irritability, depression, and dizzy spells both before and during periods—in a way no pain reliever alone possibly can.

Trendar Tablets have been thoroughly tested by hundreds of Registered Nurses on themselves. Proven safe and effective when taken as directed. Now obtainable without prescription at any drug counter. Buy Trendar at once!

Secrets Of Charm

Here's Your Chart For Size-Selection

Which size rack is your first stopping-place when you're shopping for a dress? Why? Is it because you've always worn that particular size? Is it, perhaps a number you've chosen from a rough estimate of the number of pounds you've gained or lost since you last bought a dress?

Poor fit in dresses is inclined to go hand in hand with rough estimates. And it's an equally common problem for women who've let themselves settle into the rut of wearing the same size over a long span of years. Figure changes are inevitable, after all, between the years of youth and the years of maturity, particularly for the child-bearing woman.

The differences may emerge so gradually that they will rarely be perceptible at a casual glance. Yet, even while general size and weight remain constant, contours are altered. Redistribution of weight is the chief reason, a cause effected quite naturally by the sharp contrast in the kinds and amount of physical activity typical between the years of youth and adulthood.

Many women may also be innocently unaware of the advancements that have been made in size ranges over the years. Today's proportioned sizes were unheard of just a few years ago.

So many new figure-categories are included now in the same size-brackets that it behooves all women to experiment among them periodically, to make sure their clothes are fitted in proportion to their current contours.

Here is a chart to help you become acquainted with the new size ranges available:

Junior styles, from 3 to 15, fit short-waisted women who are between 5'4" and 5'6". These women have small, high bustlines, tiny waistlines.

Junior petites, from 3 to 15, copy junior proportions—in miniature. The women must be short, under 5'4", with very small frames.

Misses' dresses, 6 to 20, are for women of average height—between 5'5" and 5'8",—who have well-proportioned contours but longer waists than juniors.

Petites, 8 to 20, are proportioned for the short Miss, under 5'5".

Talls, 8 to 20, are tailored for women over 5'7", feature longer waists and skirts than Misses' apparel.

Half-sizes, 10½ to 26½, are designed for short women with fuller-than-Junior figures and short waists.

Women's sizes 38 to 52 follow the mature figure's contours and fit women over 5'5" with longer waists.

Only a good foundation garment will give you proper contour control. For more information on this, there is a booklet called "Figured For You." It is available through this newspaper. Address your request to me, John Robert Powers, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Notary Forfeits Arundel County Post

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Mrs. Paulina W. Remey, an Anne Arundel County commissioner, has been notified by Gov. Tawes that she abandoned her position as commissioner when she took the oath of office as a notary public.

In another letter mailed Monday, Tawes asked the Democratic State Central Committee to recommend someone to fill the vacant commissioners position.

Tawes' action was based on a recent opinion by Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan that "when a public officer other than a member of the General Assembly assumes another public office, a vacancy exists in the first office which may immediately be filled by the person authorized to fill such vacancies . . ."

Mrs. Remey later resigned as a notary public, but Tawes wrote her that the resignation "does not serve to reinstate you in the office of county commissioner."

The low provides for vacancies in county commissions to be filled by the governor upon recommendation of the county state central committee of the party with which the previous office holder was affiliated.

Tawes told county Democratic chairman William J. McWilliams that he was prepared to act immediately "upon receipt of the recommendation by your committee for the filling of this vacancy."

There has been no estimate yet of how many elected officials in Maryland this may affect. However secretary of state Lloyd L. Simpkins said he did not think the number would be large.

Finan's opinion said that it is up to the legislature itself to decide if any of its members forfeited their seats by becoming notaries.

D.C. Liquor Store Employe Arrested

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Agents of the Maryland Alcohol Tax Enforcement unit arrested Tuesday an employe of a Washington liquor store who was delivering three cases of beer and 14 fifths of wine to a Maryland man.

State law provides that no more than 1 quart of alcohol at a time may be brought into Maryland from the District of Columbia.

Jail Escapee Gives Self Up To State Police

CENTERVILLE, Md. (P) — A 24-year-old escaper from the Queen Annes County jail gave himself up to State Police Tuesday after four days of freedom.

State Police at Centreville said David N. Fitzgerald, one of two men who escaped Friday night, called them from Baltimore and said he would give up if State Police came for him.

Troopers dispatched a car from Pikesville which brought him back to the Eastern Shore to face escape charges.

Fitzgerald and the other fugitive, Robert W. Castranda, 28, used a rail from a bed to pound a hole in the ceiling of their cell, Sheriff Joseph Quimbly said. They battered a hole in an outside wall of the attic and slid down a rainspout, Quinby explained.

Both prisoners had been sentenced last week to four years in prison for stealing narcotics from a Kent Island pharmacy. They were awaiting transfer to the Maryland Penitentiary when they escaped.

Baltimore County police said they were investigating the possibility that the escapers may have been connected with the shooting and robbery of $6,000 of a Baltimore County grocer Sunday night.

Three Men Plead Innocent In Car Booby-Trapping

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eugene G. Comi, 22, and two other men pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of attempting to murder Comi's estranged wife by planting a dynamite bomb under the hood of her car.

The other two men involved are John A. Tellagsen, 42, and Thomas C. Frey, 20. All three pleaded innocent in Baltimore Criminal Court to charges of attempted murder, attempted mayhem and conspiracy.

Mrs. Barbara Comi, 23, was warned by a neighbor who said she saw a man tinkering with the hood of Mrs. Comi's car early on the morning of Oct. 28. Mrs. Comi asked her uncle to investigate, and he found two sticks of dynamite wired to the ignition coil.

Comi was arrested later in the day at his East Baltimore home, 18 blocks from where the dynamite was found.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joseph L. Mathias, mayor of Westminster for the past 21 years, died Tuesday at University hospital after a short illness. He was 79.

Mathias was first elected mayor in 1942. Prior to that he had been a member and later president of the town council.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — James P. S. Devereux said Tuesday he has turned down pleas by Republican friends that he run next year for the 2nd District congressional seat he held for eight years.

"I told them I value my sleep too much to get back into all that," he said.

Devereux gave up the seat in 1958 to run for governor. He was defeated by the incumbent Democrat, J. Millard Tawes. Devereux now is public safety director for Baltimore County.

NEW YORK (AP) — A Baltimore civic worker said Tuesday the Ford Foundation had a doctrinaire approach to social problems and that some cities were forced to meet its standards to get grants.

Walter Sondheim, former chairman of the urban renewal board of Baltimore and a department store executive in that city, made the comment at a meeting of the National Social Welfare Assembly.

Doctrinaire is defined as "dogmatic about the practical applicability of one's one theories."

Sondheim said he and others in Baltimore had bypassed the Ford Foundation in setting up a program of their own for attacking the problem of human blight.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Tri-State Packers' Association, Inc., held its 60th annual convention in Baltimore Tuesday.

William S. Free Sr., president of the National Canners Association told the group the canning industry has increased its productivity 8 per cent annually. He warned, however, that growing costs over the past 12 years have cut into canners' incomes and that greater profits are needed to finance research and improved methods.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore's representatives will vote next week on a plan to change the boundaries of the city's six legislative districts.

If agreeable, Gov. Tawes will be asked to hold a special one-day session of the legislature to enact the redistricting after the regular 30-day meeting of the General Assembly in February.

The proposed new districts would reduce the population spread between the smallest and largest to 45,000. It now is 194,000.

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Maryland girls received $500 scholarships at the 42nd annual National 4-H Club Congress Tuesday.

Betty Stonesifer of Taneytown received her scholarship as one of six national winners in the 4-H beef program. She started her project in 1957 and raised 12 prize winning Shorthorn steers.

Dianne Gadow, 17, of Huntington, Calvert County, received a scholarship as the only girl among six national winners in the 4-H electric program. She won a blue ribbon at the age of 10 by demonstrating a handmade, heavy-duty extension cord.

In colonial Honduras, early settlers found gold so plentiful that they used it for shoeing their horses.

The Army secret service bureau was inaugurated in 1861 by President Lincoln.

License Issued Nursing Home

KEYSER — Pulliam Nursing Home at 104 Overton Place has been issued a license to operate for the licensing period July 1, 1963 to June 30, 1964.

On November 21, a UPI story out of Charleston reported 12 nursing homes having five or more beds and seven hospitals in West Virginia were not licensed by the State Health Department for the current fiscal year. Included in that list was the one here.

In a letter dated November 26, 1963 Dr. N. H. Dyer, state director of health, told Mrs. Alyce Pulliam Perry:

"We are enclosing a license to operate your nursing home for the licensing period July 1, 1963 to June 30, 1964.

"The continued cooperation you have extended to this department and the courtesies shown our representatives who visited your institution are sincerely appreciated."

LaVale Requests Sewage Plan Action

A letter has been sent by the LaVale Sanitary Commission to Playford S. Aldridge, chairman of the Allegany County Sanitary Commission, in which a request has been made for action on a program of providing sewage facilities for the suburban area.

The letter, signed by Chester A. Fisher, chairman of the LaVale unit, states that agency wants to proceed with the plans as each day the situation becomes more critical.

Fisher said it is hoped to proceed with the program in 1964 and hopes were expressed for firm agreements whereby LaVale, Frostburg and the County Sanitary Commission will act.

This agreement should be reached not later than December 13, Fisher stated, or else the LaVale unit will have no other alternative than to request the State Health Department to process their application, release to the unit the funds the state agency is now holding and authorize LaVale to proceed independently with its own sewage program.

Albert S. Paye, county engineer, told the county commissioners that a meeting of the engineering firms of the parties involved was held last week and a meeting of attorneys of the parties involved will be held this week to iron out legal phases of the program.

Paye said he will have a report soon on the project. He also said that the engineers are in agreement on the plan to channel Frostburg's sewage via an interceptor sewer line to LaVale and thence to the City of Cumberland's sewage disposal plant.

Railroad Cars Derailed Here

City Police and firemen responded Monday when a tank car, loaded with a highly inflammable fluid, was derailed on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad near the Wineow Street subway.

Sgt. Warren Brehm of the City Police Department said some of the fluid that had leaked out of the tanker was soaked up in the ground.

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Some people think it's a bit frivolous to like a car just because it looks so nice. So what you'll have to do is bone up a little on all the other things that make a Pontiac a Pontiac.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out.

Be careful, though. One ride in this car and everybody's going to think you're made of money. You can solve that problem by telling what you paid. Or you might just say, "You'd sure think this car cost a lot, wouldn't you?"

Or you could take everybody's mind off it entirely by giving your Pontiac some throttle. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. And you get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

Really, though, you can buy a Pontiac solely because you like its looks. We don't think you'll find many people who'll ask you for more practical reasons.

What they'll be asking for is a ride—and the name of the man you bought your '64 Pontiac from.

Railroad Cars Derailed Here

City Police and firemen responded Monday when a tank car, loaded with a highly inflammable fluid, was derailed on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad near the Wineow Street subway.

Sgt. Warren Brehm of the City Police Department said some of the fluid that had leaked out of the tanker was soaked up in the ground.

Firemen from South End Station reported to the scene, but were not called on for service.

Police said several train cars were derailed in the area.

Explosives Blow Up

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Two freight cars loaded with explosives blew up in a railway yard in Nagpur Monday, critically injuring seven persons. Reports said many others were less seriously hurt in the blast, which damaged 50 buildings. Thousands of Nagpur residents ran into the streets in panic, fearing an earthquake.

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Some people think it's a bit frivolous to like a car just because it looks so nice. So what you'll have to do is bone up a little on all the other things that make a Pontiac a Pontiac.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out.

Be careful, though. One ride in this car and everybody's going to think you're made of money. You can solve that problem by telling what you paid. Or you might just say, "You'd sure think this car cost a lot, wouldn't you?"

Or you could take everybody's mind off it entirely by giving your Pontiac some throttle. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. And you get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

Really, though, you can buy a Pontiac solely because you like its looks. We don't think you'll find many people who'll ask you for more practical reasons.

What they'll be asking for is a ride—and the name of the man you bought your '64 Pontiac from.

Engineers Favor Royal Glen Dam

The Royal Glen Dam on the South Branch of the Potomac River at Petersburg was approved Monday by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors as being among those eight impoundments adopted as a part of the comprehensive plan for the Potomac River Basin.

Three other impoundments in this area among the seven recommended for site investigation and land acquisition were the Town Creek, Mt. Storm and Savage River II dams.

The board Monday also revised the local government's participation in the overall cost of the Bloomington Dam on the North Branch, already authorized by the Corps of Army Engineers, a spokesman said today in Washington.

The local participation was reduced from approximately 32 per cent of the total cost to 27.7 per cent, for a savings to Allegany and Garrett counties and the State of Maryland of over from $2 to $3 million dollars.

The report of the Board of Engineers of Rivers and Harbors is another step in bringing the river basin development plan developed by the Corps of Army Engineers closer to consideration by Congress.

The report now goes to the Army Chief of Engineers who will refer it to the governors of the four basin states—Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania; to the commissioners of the District of Columbia and to all federal agencies concerned with water resources in the 14,670 square mile basin area.

The board noted that the plan should "undergo further tests of public opinion" before it is sent to the Congress, and said the state and local government agencies should hold hearings.

In brief, the board said it sees no other way to fulfill the water needs of the basin than by providing reservoirs.

A controversial subject downstream, the high dam at Seneca which would flood the valley up to Brunswick, was among those approved by the board.

However, the engineers said that prior to the construction of the 84-foot high dam a study should be made of that estuary of the Potomac.

The Royal Glen and Seneca were among the eight major dams approved by the board. Others would be located on tributaries at Chambersburg, Pa.; Staunton, Va.; Six Bridge, Md.; West Branch, Pa.; Rocks Gap, Va., and Winchester, Va.

Included along with the Mt. Storm, Town Creek and Savage II dams for site investigation are Licking Creek, North Mountain, Back Creek, and Tonoloway projects.

The board said site check should be undertaken on these seven projects, and land needs to be clearly defined.

Immediately following the land investigation plans should be made for the acquisition of the property by the local governments participating with the federal government in the overall cost.

The board stated that this would be protection against possible zoning action or acquisition by other sources that would prevent incompatible development of the areas.

The cost of acquiring the acreage would be credited by the federal government against reimbursible costs of the projects.

City To Dedicate And Light Christmas Tree December 16 At Church Site

The City of Cumberland will dedicate and light its Christmas tree with appropriate ceremonies Monday, December 16, at 7 p.m., Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder announced.

Plans for the program are being made by C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, assisted by Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant director.

The community was set up yesterday at the observance site at Emmanuel Episcopal Church and city crews began setting up the Creche, nativity scene, at the site of the December 16 program, according to Ray Valentine, street superintendent.

The committee handling the city observance said that it is not planned to light trees at the Valley Street and South End (Race and Seymour streets) parks this year although it will furnish trees if an organization or a group of interested citizens would put the lights in place. Lack of money in the budget necessitated this decision, it was said. This has been caused, in part, by the theft or breakage of Christmas lights from trees in past years.

City Hall decorations will feature trees at the Liberty and Centre streets entrances and large stars, which were donated, also at the two entrances. Wreaths will be hung in windows and the rotunda also will be decorated Rotunda decorations are on hand and do not require additional expenditure.

Small trees for trim and other uses were obtained through the cooperation of state forestry officials at New Germany, Valentine said.

Master of ceremonies of the Christmas program at the tree dedication will be Arthur B. Gibson, former city comptroller. The speaker's platform will be erected at the Cumberland-Baltimore-Green streets intersection and traffic will be diverted during the ceremony.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney will give a brief talk and officially light the tree.

Invocation will be by Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church and the benediction by Rev. Vernon I. Naugle, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

The Allegany County Homemakers' Chorus, director Mrs. Georgette Gilford, will present a program of Christmas carols.

The program will be climaxed with the arrival of Santa Claus who will distribute treats to children attending.

Prior to the start of the program, a decorated truck carrying Allegany High School students who will play instrumental Christmas music, will traverse Baltimore Street. The group is in charge of Donald Long.

Londoners Feel Kennedy Loss

A feeling that "a great friend and loved one had been taken from us" was expressed by Londoners when they heard the news of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Bridget Knobloch of Cresaptown received a letter from her sister, Mrs. Gloria Nurton, a resident of London, who said "I feel that I must offer you all our heartfelt sympathy on the tragic loss of President Kennedy."

Mrs. Nurton said that in the days following the President's death "we couldn't think of anything else. We felt an awful gnawing sense of deep loss; a feeling that we couldn't explain or push to one side."

She said she wished she could put into words "how we felt about this wicked, senseless waste of such a great man."

Mrs. Nurton continued to say "we were immensely impressed by Jackie Kennedy. Her composure and bearing were marvelous, and in the midst of such deep, personal shock and grief, her regal behavior could not have been bettered even from the drawing rooms of Buckingham Palace. She was supreme, but, oh, so sad."

W. Va. Fourth In Fluoridation

West Virginia currently ranks fourth in the nation in the percentage of population using fluoridated public water supplies in an effort to reduce tooth decay.

However, the State Health Department said there still are 37 community water supplies, each serving 2,000 persons or more, which still do not fluoridate.

Among those communities are Keyser, Piedmont and Romney.

The health department said 83 per cent of the state's population is served by water suppliers who have adopted fluoridation. Maryland leads with 91 per cent, followed by Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

The use of fluoride, the department said, results in an average reduction of tooth decay among children of about 60 per cent.

Fluoridation is presently contemplated in several of the 37 communities, according to the department which said "to the others, we now give notice that during 1964 every effort will be made by this agency to secure fluoridation."

Shrine Club Again Asks For Tax Exemption

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners sitting as a Board of Assessment Review, yesterday heard testimony in the application of Ali Ghan Temple for a tax exemption on its property on Baltimore Pike.

Following a lengthy hearing, the commissioners said they would not make a decision pending a review of the facts brought out yesterday.

Miller Bowen, attorney for the Shrine, told the board that the facilities are needed for the operation of the ritualistic and social program of the Temple and under the law qualify for a tax exemption.

John Stitely, supervisor of assessments, gave his position in which he has denied the tax exemption pointing to its public use.

Testifying for the Shrine were Droze Zembower, secretary; Woodward Pealer, potentate; J. Wallace Close, past potentate and Lewis Ort, president of the Shrine Club.

The use to which the property is put for the benefit of its members and their families was outlined. Ort said that he wished to "clear up a misconception on the part of the general public" that the Shrine Club is a big money-maker. "This is not true, we have lost money in the operation of the club for some years," he added.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said that the question which the board must decide is whether or not part, all or none of the club is used by the public. This will decide to what extent, if any, the club receives a tax exemption, it was pointed out.

She served on active duty during World War II and was recalled to special active duty in 1948 to check the potential for women reservists in this district.

She served on the school staff as a storekeeper at district headquarters in Norfolk in 1950 in the training of women reservists.

Rising to second class petty officer in that rating on active duty, she was advanced to storekeeper first class, and cross-rated to personnelman, subsequently being advanced to personnelman acting chief and then to permanent chief in 1962.

Opening lead: Four of ♠

Declarer had considerably more to fear from one defender than the other in today's hand. Failure on his part to neutralize the dangerous hand led to his downfall.

Against the final contract of four hearts, West chose the four of spades as his opening lead, and the queen was played from the dummy in the hope that East would be induced to cover. East however could not have obliged even had that been his desire, and South overtook the queen with his ace.

A club was led at trick two and, when West followed with the trey, the nine was played from the dummy in the hope that it would force out a high honor. Unfortunately, for the declarer, East won the trick with the ten of clubs and made the killing return of a trump.

South's cause was now irretrievably lost. If he played the ace of hearts from his hand, West would rise with the ace on the next club lead, play the king of hearts to draw North's last trump and then lead another club enabling his partner to cash the setting trick in that suit. If declarer took a trump finesse when East returned the heart, West would win with the king and return a trump so that South would be obliged to concede two more club tricks in the end.

Declarer's error arose from his failure to control the lead. Since it is his desire to ruff a club if possible, he must exert his efforts toward preventing East from getting in profitably to return a trump.

Observe the effect South obtains by crossing over to the ace of diamonds at trick two and then leading the nine of clubs from dummy. If East plays the ten of clubs, declarer covers with the jack forcing out West's ace. The latter cannot lead a trump without sacrificing his heart trick, and South is eventually able to ruff out his third club.

If East puts up the king of clubs when the nine is led, in order to return a trump, declarer will no longer require a ruff. The queen of clubs will drive out the ace and South's jack becomes a winner in its own right.

LaVale Seeks Bond Issue

The LaVale Sanitary Commission has requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to authorize a $200,000 bond issue to help defray the cost of extension of water lines, replacement of some lines and pumping stations in an expansion program.

The LaVale unit has received federal funds of $118,500 for the project and the total cost of the work is expected to be approximately $300,000.

Gaylord Brooks, senior sanitarian of the Allegany County Health Department, has informed the county commissioners that the county would be eligible for federal funds in the establishment of sanitary land fills for garbage dumps.

Brooks said that the county could file an application for such funds, when they become available. The federal government has no funds in this program at present, Brooks told the board.

By making application now the necessary paper work could be completed through the State Health Department so that the money could be obtained from any future appropriations for this purpose, Brooks informed the board.

Cadillac

BEFORE THE SPEEDOMETER READS 30—HE'LL KNOW HOW NEW IT IS:

The second he touches his toe to the accelerator, his amazement will begin. For no previous Cadillac ever moved like this one!

At 10 miles an hour, the most powerful engine in Cadillac history will already be working its magic.

By 20 that great Cadillac transmission—the newly improved Hydra-Matic or the completely new Turbo Hydra-Matic—will reveal a smooth, flawless kind of action he's never felt in any motor car before.

And by 30 the whole splendor of this new Cadillac performance will begin to unfold. New response. New quietness. New balance and poise. New alertness.

At 40 or 50, the car will have so much added acceleration that passing will be incredibly easy—with an extra margin of safety he's never known before.

And even at the full legal limit, this new Cadillac car will be so steady and quiet that the only sensation of motion will come from the passing scenery.

And then, he will take restful note of the other great new Cadillac virtues—the extraordinary luxury of Comfort Control* . . . the magnificent comfort of the new contoured seats . . . the marvelous roominess and convenience that come only with the "car of cars".

Want to find out yourself how new the 1964 Cadillac is? Your dealer is standing by with the keys. All he needs is you and thirty minutes.

*An extra-cost option combining heating and air conditioning.

Shrine Club Again Asks For Tax Exemption

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners sitting as a Board of Assessment Review, yesterday heard testimony in the application of Ali Ghan Temple for a tax exemption on its property on Baltimore Pike.

Following a lengthy hearing, the commissioners said they would not make a decision pending a review of the facts brought out yesterday.

Miller Bowen, attorney for the Shrine, told the board that the facilities are needed for the operation of the ritualistic and social program of the Temple and under the law qualify for a tax exemption.

John Stitely, supervisor of assessments, gave his position in which he has denied the tax exemption pointing to its public use.

Testifying for the Shrine were Droze Zembower, secretary; Woodward Pealer, potentate; J. Wallace Close, past potentate and Lewis Ort, president of the Shrine Club.

The use to which the property is put for the benefit of its members and their families was outlined. Ort said that he wished to "clear up a misconception on the part of the general public" that the Shrine Club is a big money-maker. "This is not true, we have lost money in the operation of the club for some years," he added.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said that the question which the board must decide is whether or not part, all or none of the club is used by the public. This will decide to what extent, if any, the club receives a tax exemption, it was pointed out.

Local WAVE Advanced To Senior Chief

Mrs. Helen E. Metz, of 1308 Holland Street, has been notified that she was selected for the Naval Reserve rating of Senior Chief Personnelman — or military pay grade E-8.

She served on active duty during World War II and was recalled to special active duty in 1948 to check the potential for women reservists in this district.

She served on the school staff as a storekeeper at district headquarters in Norfolk in 1950 in the training of women reservists.

Rising to second class petty officer in that rating on active duty, she was advanced to storekeeper first class, and cross-rated to personnelman, subsequently being advanced to personnelman acting chief and then to permanent chief in 1962.

4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠

Declarer had considerably more to fear from one defender than the other in today's hand. Failure on his part to neutralize the dangerous hand led to his downfall.

Against the final contract of four hearts, West chose the four of spades as his opening lead, and the queen was played from the dummy in the hope that East would be induced to cover. East however could not have obliged even had that been his desire, and South overtook the queen with his ace.

A club was led at trick two and, when West followed with the trey, the nine was played from the dummy in the hope that it would force out a high honor. Unfortunately, for the declarer, East won the trick with the ten of clubs and made the killing return of a trump.

South's cause was now irretrievably lost. If he played the ace of hearts from his hand, West would rise with the ace on the next club lead, play the king of hearts to draw North's last trump and then lead another club enabling his partner to cash the setting trick in that suit. If declarer took a trump finesse when East returned the heart, West would win with the king and return a trump so that South would be obliged to concede two more club tricks in the end.

Declarer's error arose from his failure to control the lead. Since it is his desire to ruff a club if possible, he must exert his efforts toward preventing East from getting in profitably to return a trump.

Observe the effect South obtains by crossing over to the ace of diamonds at trick two and then leading the nine of clubs from dummy. If East plays the ten of clubs, declarer covers with the jack forcing out West's ace. The latter cannot lead a trump without sacrificing his heart trick, and South is eventually able to ruff out his third club.

If East puts up the king of clubs when the nine is led, in order to return a trump, declarer will no longer require a ruff. The queen of clubs will drive out the ace and South's jack becomes a winner in its own right.

LaVale Seeks Bond Issue

The LaVale Sanitary Commission has requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to authorize a $200,000 bond issue to help defray the cost of extension of water lines, replacement of some lines and pumping stations in an expansion program.

The LaVale unit has received federal funds of $118,500 for the project and the total cost of the work is expected to be approximately $300,000.

Gaylord Brooks, senior sanitarian of the Allegany County Health Department, has informed the county commissioners that the county would be eligible for federal funds in the establishment of sanitary land fills for garbage dumps.

Brooks said that the county could file an application for such funds, when they become available. The federal government has no funds in this program at present, Brooks told the board.

By making application now the necessary paper work could be completed through the State Health Department so that the money could be obtained from any future appropriations for this purpose, Brooks informed the board.

Succession To The Presidency

Now that the United States will have no Vice President until the candidate elected in November 1964 takes office in January 1965, there are many who wonder who is next in line for the Presidency.

The answer is the 71-year-old Speaker of the House of Representatives, John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

Formerly third in the line of succession, but second now, is the 80-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, who has spent 51 years in Congress. As senior Democratic Senator, he is president pro tempore of the Senate, and the presiding officer in the absence of a Vice President.

Next in line of succession is the Secretary of State. Following in line is the Secretary of the Treasury. The succession includes all the appointed Cabinet members, in the order in which the Cabinet post was created by Congress.

No speaker of the House has ever succeeded a President who died in office. In fact, no former speaker has ever become President.

No Secretary of State has become President through the line of succession. Some Presidents have, however, been Secretary of State. Thomas Jefferson is one (he was also a former Vice President), and James Madison, James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren (also a former Vice President), and James Buchanan.

Vice Presidents who have become Presidents are John Adams, Jefferson, Van Buren, John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, Chester A. Arthur, Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, Harry S. Truman, and now Lyndon Johnson. Of these, all succeeded Presidents who died in office, except Adams and Jefferson.

There are some who think the Chief Justice of the United States is in line for the Presidency. This is not so. The Chief Justice is appointed to his post for life. Interestingly, though, a former President, William Howard Taft, became Chief Justice of the U. S., and so did a former Presidential candidate, Charles Evans Hughes.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Johnson's Appeal

It was George Bevel, the man who directed the public relations end of the 1960 Citizens Committee for Lyndon Johnson, who was speaking.

"It's curious," he said. "Back in 1960, when we hoped to nominate Lyndon, we got out a forty-page booklet defining him in relation to the ten most important issues then confronting the U. S. people. As I look back on it, there wasn't a thing that Johnson was equivocal about. Yet today, there are those who wonder where he will come to rest on a lot of things. I don't see where there is any mystery."

Bevel, a Texan who has set down new roots in New York City and Washington, doing organizing work for the next Democratic convention, thinks that Johnson is especially constituted to appeal to the North. There are two big reasons for this. One, Johnson has the sort of temperament that should enable him to get along with the business community — "provided, of course, that it doesn't pull any rough stuff."

"Look at it this way," said Bevel. "Johnson is perhaps the best sampler of minds in the country; he keeps his promises; he is tolerant of all points of view until he has arrived at a decision, and then, having arrived at a consensus, he is intolerant of the backbiting and intrigue of second-guessers; he is a born organizer; and he probably knows as much about foreign trade as anybody in government. Why wouldn't business look to such a man for strengthening the economic position of the country?"

The Johnson "feel" for things, in Mr. Bevel's estimation, should be particularly apparent in relation to Latin America. "People think of Johnson as being a 'domestic' politician," he said. "But no man who ran the Senate Policy Committee could be ignorant of foreign affairs. Coming from Texas, Johnson is an aficionado about Mexico. He has no prejudices that get in the way of seeing the Latin American temperament for what it is. As a young man he taught school in South Texas—if you look it up, I think you'll find it was an all-Mexican school. It was in Acapulco, Mexico, that I was interviewed by Johnson in 1960, at the instance of John Connally, now the Texas governor, for my Citizens Committee job.

"Johnson has always been in and out of Mexico. On one of his trips he persuaded the Mexican President, Lopez Mateos, to visit his ranch at Johnson City. Lopez was a little concerned about possible discrimination against his person in Texas. Johnson set his mind to rest on that score.

The point about this is that Johnson knows how to talk to Latin Americans—if it is at all possible, he is the man to deal with the Argentinians. He will certainly tighten things up in the balance of payments and foreign aid business. As for his not knowing Europe, this is nonsense. Chancellor Adenauer visited with Johnson in his office in the Senate back in 1960. Before the long chat was over, Johnson had made Adenauer promise to visit him in Texas on his next trip to the U.S. When Adenauer did come back to the U.S. he spent some time with Johnson at his ranch. Johnson knows how to bring people to him, and it wasn't for show, for the Adenauer promise was made before the election.

"The second reason for thinking that Johnson can appeal to the North is that he has been a real leader on civil rights. Just think of it, it was as a Texas Senator who had just recovered from a massive heart attack that Johnson engineered, if that is the word for it, the first civil rights bill since the Civil War. A couple of years after this he promised that if the Senate would not take up a new civil rights bill by 1960, he, Johnson, would introduce one personally. He kept his promise by attaching a civil rights rider to an innocuous bill — and nearly blew the roof off the Senate.

"The point is that Johnson was ahead of any northern Democrat in all this. I can't understand how liberals have missed it. If anything, he should be stronger in the North than in the South."

This is how Johnson appears to a Texan who, second only to John Connally, went all out to put "LBJ, all the way" into the White House in 1960.

Incentive To Block Goldwater In Connecticut

By Joseph Alsop

AVON, Conn.

Judging by this state, it is far too early to say—as so many are now saying—that the new political situation in the country will block the movement to make Sen. Barry Goldwater the Republican Presidential nominee.

Connecticut makes a particularly good test area, precisely because the tragic assassination of President Kennedy has revolutionized the entire outlook here. As will be recalled, this state led the Election Night list for Kennedy in 1960, giving him a majority above 90,000.

Once in the White House, moreover, he had gained even more support here. Hence he was universally expected to carry Connecticut next time by up to 200,000 votes, and perhaps by more.

While President Kennedy lived, therefore, no rational Republican had the smallest hope of beating Connecticut's Democratic Senator, Thomas Dodd, and the five Democratic Representatives who are up for re-election. Indeed, Connecticut's sole Republican member of the House, Abner Sibal, was generally thought to be in grave danger.

Even so, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller seemed almost certain to gather in the Connecticut delegates to the Republican Convention — until he remarried. Thereupon, however, former Sen. Prescott Bush made the first and the most damaging public attack on the Governor, calling on him to refrain from seeking the Presidential nomination on moral grounds.

From that day to this, no significant Connecticut Republican has come into the open for Rockefeller, although the Governor's political agent-in-chief, George Hinman, has been in constant touch with various leaders here. Meanwhile, the Goldwater supporters were making hay in Connecticut until President Kennedy was assassinated.

The heart of the Goldwater movement is in the rich suburban town of Greenwich, where the leaders are four masters of great fortunes, Gerrish Milliken, Jeremiah Milbank Jr., Lowell Weicker, and J. William Middendorf. Middendorf is also National Finance Chairman of the Goldwaterites, and Weicker has been First Selectman of Greenwich since the Goldwater faction overthrew the town's former progressive Republican leadership.

From this Greenwich base, which assures the most lavish financing, the Goldwater movement has rapidly extended outwards, into the rest of the state. The official leader, soon to be announced, is a former aspirant to the Governorship and the current Republican State Finance Chairman, Newman Marsilius.

Support for Goldwater by a substantial majority of township leaders is already being claimed. In each township (the basic political unit in this state) Goldwater organizations are already being formed at the grass-roots level. The object, obviously, is to hogtie the Connecticut Republican convention long before it convenes, and then to take the whole Connecticut delegation for Goldwater as it was taken for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

No effective obstacle to this scheme was visible anywhere prior to the loss of President Kennedy. This was the case although the hot-eyed Goldwaterites were in a decided minority among Connecticut Republicans, who generally lean to the progressive side.

The party as a whole was (and still is) split seven ways to Sunday, principally by the feud between the former and present chairmen, Edwin May and Searle Pinney. Besides being divided among themselves, even those Republicans who were most certain Goldwater would be poison in Connecticut were also certain no one could beat a Kennedy-led ticket here. Thus no effective opposition to Goldwater coalesced anywhere.

Now, however, everything has changed, or at least everything ought to change. President Johnson, while not unpopular, has none of the strong, sure support in Connecticut Kennedy had. In the abstract, it appears entirely possiable that the loss of Kennedy can swing Connecticut into the Republican column in 1964.

"Against Lyndon Johnson, I think we can win here with anyone but Barry Goldwater," says a Republican leader who wishes to remain nameless, because he thinks he may end by having to give formal support to the conservative Republican hero. "And with the right kind of Presidential nominee, we ought then to have a chance to pick up Dodd's Senate seat and several House seats."

In other words, the Connecticut Republicans now have a powerful incentive to seek a Presidential candidate more attractive than Goldwater. The incentive is a packet of offices which the Democrats seemed sure to hold while Kennedy lived, but which may now be up for grabs.

Most Republicans agree with the man above-quoted, that these offices will not be up for grabs if Goldwater is the Republican nominee. Against Goldwater, it is generally felt, Johnson ought to get something like the Connecticut majority that Kennedy got last time.

Yet the Rockefeller remarriage continues to discourage party support for him; and everyone glumly asks, "Who else is there, except Gov. Scranton, who won't make a move?" That is why it may be premature to say Goldwater is blocked.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

HAMS — Sen. Barry Goldwater and Herbert Hoover, Jr., publicly admitted recently that they are hams — and have been for many years. And they testified before a Congressional committee that they wanted the laws changed to permit the creation of more hams—amateur short-wave radio operators, that is.

Goldwater's Washington station call letters are K3UIG and his Phoenix, Ariz., call is K7UGA. Hoover is president of the American Radio Relay League and the International Amateur Radio Union. His call is W6ZH.

Both men urged Congress to revise radio laws to permit alien amateur radio operators to operate in the United States—something they haven't been able to do since Hoover's father was President. Because of the prohibition, many foreign countries retaliate and do not permit American residents in their countries to operate amateur radio stations.

This situation bars many Americans from participating in a hobby that has proved helpful to governments and people in times of crisis and disaster.

Goldwater, who in his political capacity has shown extreme sensitivity to national security, says there are no risks in this area involved in the proposed law change.

Jet airplanes, diplomatic pouches and cables are the preferred media used by spies to transmit their material to their home governments. The amateur band of the radio spectrum is far too crowded and too well monitored to permit productive espionage communications.

There are more than 300,000 amateur radio operators in the world, constantly talking to one another. And the vast majority of them favor the law change.

Texas Newspaper Publisher First To See Promise Of Lyndon Johnson

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A lot of people will probably claim credit for developing Lyndon Johnson. But one man who could claim credit, but won't is Charles E. Marsh, now an invalid living in Washington.

Charley Marsh was a Texas newspaper publisher when Lyndon first came to Washington, saw him as a promising youngster who with guidance could go places. Marsh gave him the guidance, also financial support.

Marsh was also a close friend of Vice President Henry Wallace, Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, Tom Corcoran and other New Dealers. They all met together at his home.

Johnson was then an obscure secretary to Congressman Dick Kleberg of the King Ranch. But Marsh encouraged him to run for Congress on his own, later urged him to run for the Senate and again backed him.

At one time when this column published the fact that Marsh was friendly with Johnson and Wallace, Jesse Jones, then head of the RFC, pressured a Texas bank to call a $50,000 loan which Marsh had with that bank. But that made no difference. Marsh continued loyal to his friends.

The new President of the United States will be the first to tell you how much he owes to the invalid publisher who now sits in his home at Woodland Drive paralyzed, unable to speak, watching his one-time protege in the White House.

Texas vs. New York

The most interesting big business battle of the decade comes to a climax today in Baltimore. It's a battle between Texas oil and New York finance with overtones of huge political campaign funds and the hate atmosphere of Dallas which has made that city so dangerous for a liberal statesman to visit.

The pawn in the battle is the New York Central Railway, the Missouri Pacific, and Investors Diversified Services, a $2 billion mutual funds empire, all controlled by the Allegheny Corporation, which the Murchison family of Texas coveted but which Allan P. Kirby of New York will get.

The battle is important not only because of the huge economic stakes involved, but also because of the political background. It illustrates how big business has got into big politics, also into sowing the seeds of suspicion and hate. Finally it involves one of the all-important loop-holes in the tax laws, the 27 and ½ per cent oil depletion allowance, which Lyndon Johnson as a senator from Texas, understandably championed. No man could be elected from Texas without so doing. As President he will look at the tax-loop-hole from the viewpoint of all the 50 states.

Let it be said that the Murchison family has been recent backers of both Johnson and Kennedy; nor have they subscribed recently to the hate campaigns of other Texas oil millionaires. They have even sponsored some liberal causes.

Seeds Of Suspicion

But the seeds of suspicion when backed by cold Texas cash are hard to weed out, and it was Clint Murchison who, with his wife, put up $10,000 to back Sen. Joe McCarthy in defeating Sen. Millard Tydings of Maryland in one of the worst smear campaigns of the past decade.

"He (Tydings) was tolerant of a bad situation, white washing those Communists in his committee," said Murchison, in explaining why he sent the $10,000 all the way to Maryland.

It made no difference that when Sen. McCarthy himself took over the probe of the State Department he could find not one single Communist.

Another Senate investigating committee did find, however that part of Murchison's money was "short-circuited" to pay for a fake tabloid showing Tydings posing with Earl Browder, the Communist leader. The Senate committee described this as "disregarding simple decency and common honesty, was designed to create and exploit doubts about the loyalty of Tydings."

Murchison also sent money all the way to Connecticut to help McCarthy defeat Sen. William Benton, the one senator who had the courage to ask for McCarthy's censure. All this was made easy by oil money and the 27½ per cent depletion allowance.

Shrewd Scotsman

Most sections of the United States, especially the north, have now got over that campaign of suspicion and hate. But certain parts of the south and west have not. Suspicion, when backed by plentiful supplies of tax-free money, can permeate a community for a long time, and Dallas still remains the hate capital of the USA.

Two years ago, looking for more worlds to conquer, the Murchisons tried to extend their influence to Wall Street. They had already branched out from oil to motels and movie drive-ins, to the Martha Washington Candy Co., the Royal Gorge Amusement Co., in Colorado, Field and Stream, the Henry Holt Publishing Co., Atlantic Life Insurance in Richmond, the Transcontinental Bus System, second only to Greyhound, and for a time two race tracks at Charles Town, W. Va., and Del Mar, Calif.

But in the proxy battle for control of Allegheny, the Murchisons bucked a shrewd Scotsman, Allan Kirby, biggest stockholder in Woolworth, International Tel and Tel, and Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

The Murchisons borrowed money, hired public relations experts, put up a spectacular proxy fight, and won the first round. They took over Allegheny. But Kirby remained loyal to his chief executive, Charles T. Ireland, who continued the battle. The Murchisons were overextended. This week in Baltimore Kirby will take back complete control of Allegheny.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Never mind the name. That's what I call a wild hotel. On Saturday it reaches its peak. That's when the 90-year-old bucks lead their 80-year-old ladies down to the lobby to find chairs near the television set so that they can watch the Jackie Gleason Show. They think he's a card. They laugh before he says anything because they can't hear it even when the volume is up.

We were there three days. We were waiting out a wind. It came down out of the north like a long freight train and it bucked the Gulf Stream, going in the opposite direction. The waves built up like peeked bungalows. All the boats intending to cross over to the Jack Tarr at Grand Bahama stayed right in the marina, riding their mooring lines like fettered hula queens.

One elderly lady followed me onto an elevator and whacked me across the hip with her cane. Boy, did we laungh. I never saw so many dentures in my life. If they were all placed in front of the hotel, they'd look like a mother-of-pearl rock garden. At 10 p. m. the hotel is as dead as the Bunny Hug. The elevator remains at the ground floor. The boy who runs it dozes with his chin on his chest.

He also parks cars. Two lights are left on in the lobby. The swish of a palm tree outside sounds like Brahm's Funeral March, done with maracas. By day, all the guests sit around talking about the next meal. The little old ladies have their white hair frizzed up so tight it looks like lint on a golf ball. The men are straight as ramrods from the feet to the hips. The rest is bent so far forward that when they look straight ahead they're staring at the rug.

We had brought our boat down from Leon Hodges' dock in Lake Park, so we were a little bent too. In fact, the most flattering thing that happened was that the lively old timers invited us to join the club. We drove across the bridge to Worth Avenue and dined at Ta-Boo. This is a restaurant full of the old Palm Beach Crowd. The men wear gay blazers and dance with ladies who wear gauzy dresses which appear to be nightgowns. The place is run by big Jim Peterson, who used to pitch for Connie Mack, and his wife Danger, who pitches for Jim.

I told Danger that we stopped in to get away from the Confederate Veterans in West Palm Beach. She pointed to an elderly couple. The husband is in his seventies and they bought a house near a school.

Peterson sat with Pierre Salinger, playing a new game. Only two can participate. Each one puts four quarters on the table. Jim covers the eight quarters with a handkerchief. Each man reaches underneath and draws out a quarter. Then Peterson says: "Will you give me a dollar for what's left under the handkerchief? Salinger says "Sure," because he knows that there are six quarters left. He pays.

"I think I'm doing this trick wrong," Peterson says. He takes the dollar. He is lying. Jim is doing the trick correctly, and he wins on the deal. Don't ask me how — try it and you'll see. It is guaranteed to start an argument in every family. A new one, that is.

Danger, a tiny doll with black hair, always wears a ringlet of small flowers on her head. Some people think it's a hat. She makes a new one every day. Her real name is Eleanor, but only her mother calls her that. Like her husband, she's a kidder. One night a priest came into the restaurant and asked her what kind of a proper name Danger might be.

"Father," she said, "don't tell me that you don't study your Bible. Remember the part where Salome wants the head of John the Baptist? It was brought in on a platter, you will recall. Well, who mopped up the spilled blood, Father? St. Dangerina, right?" He nodded wisely. "Saint Dangerina" he murmured. "Ah, yes."

We waited out the wind for three days. It moved slightly, from 12 o'clock to 3. The big tankers, riding south to Key West and up the Gulf for oil, lifted their ballasted bows high in the green, hung there, and then fell back. That sea was no place for our boat. Neither was that hotel.

So we took the craft down the inland waterway to Hallandale. There were just the two of us. On both sides of the big creek are more beautiful homes than I've seen anywhere in the world. The designs are bright and gay, the landscaping is lovely, the swimming pools surrounded by white tile are a treat to the eye. Kelly window-shopped all the way.

Me? I kept thinking of that wild hotel. Some evening I'm going to walk in that lobby with an open bottle of beer in my hand and I'm going to yell: "Let's start an orgy.". . .

A Virus May Be Responsible For Leukemia

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Evidence continues to mount that leukemia is caused by a virus. This does not necessarily mean that the disease is contagious or can be passed to others by the victim. It indicates a virus is capable of initiating leukemia in much the same way as streptococci trigger an attack of rheumatic fever.

Strep do their dirty work 10 days to two weeks before the development of fever and painful, swollen joints. Another similarity is that in leukemia, the virus attacks long before blood abnormalities and swollen glands are noted.

This may explain why leukemia seldom occurs in more than one member of a family. Only three such families were found in one study of 182 patients. In the first, a father and son died; in the second and third, cousins were affected. Two cases have been reported in which infants born of a leukemic mother developed the disease several months after birth.

There also are seasonal variations in the incidence of leukemia. December and June are the peak months. The greatest number of cases of rheumatic fever occur in February and March, when strep infections are common.

The viral concept of leukemia received impetus from outbreaks in several communities in this country and elsewhere. In Niles, Ill., eight children suffered from the disease between the fall of 1957 and the summer of 1960. They all came from one residential area. Seven had attended the same parochial schools or had brothers or sisters who went there. The eighth victim had playmates in this school.

Blood studies showed antibodies against leukemia in some members of the families, indicating they had been exposed. These antibodies were not noted in leukemia-free families. The question arises, are some people susceptible and others resistant to leukemia?

BONE BENDING

H. R. writes: Why do the bones of some people become soft and flexible?

REPLY

Softening of the bones may be due to osteoporosis or osteomalacia. Many factors are involved in osteoporosis; a glandular deficiency, disuse, malnutrition, or a disease like hyperthyroidism or diabetes. In still others, no cause can be found. Osteomalacia is due to too little calcium and phosphorus in the body. The cause may be lack of absorption or too much excretion of these minerals. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on these bone conditions.

CHILLY BROW

Mrs. J. V. K. writes: I have a cold forehead—not all the time, but now and then. Is there some way to relieve this condition?

REPLY

Cover your forehead with your warm hand if coldness is bothersome. Otherwise, forget it. This symptom has no significance.

WADDLING GAIT

M. S. writes: What causes a duck waddle stance?

REPLY

Some persons have neurological conditions involving balance. They walk with the legs far apart to maintain stability. In children, a duck waddle gait usually means dislocation of both hips.

SQUIRMING WORM

C. I. R. writes: Could a worm in the stomach cause belching?

REPLY

No, not even when it turns.

TOMORROW: Swallowing disturbances.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A sad-eyed stranger sat down in the snack bar of a Memphis hotel and instructed the waitress, "Bring me some warm orange juice, two pieces of dry toast burned to a crisp, a couple of underfried eggs on a dirty plate, and a cup of coffee that tastes like mud." The waitress grinned, and in short order returned with a full tray. "Are you sure there's nothing else I can do for you?" she inquired. "There IS one thing more," nodded the stranger. "You can sit down and nag me. I'm homesick."

A dull and conceited man-about-town accosted Miss Beatrice Lillie at a dinner one evening and said loudly, "I believe you invited me to a party at your hotel last Wednesday." "That's possible," admitted Miss Lillie cheerfully. "Tell me, did you come?"

Advice to malicious book reviewers from that master Stephen

These are, indeed, the melancholy days (as the poets have it) for any Weather Man. He's either being laughed at and derided for being so wrong, or hated (confound him, anyway!) for being right.

Succession To The Presidency

Now that the United States will have no Vice President until the candidate elected in November 1964 takes office in January 1965, there are many who wonder who is next in line for the Presidency.

The answer is the 71-year-old Speaker of the House of Representatives, John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

Formerly third in the line of succession, but second now, is the 80-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, who has spent 51 years in Congress. As senior Democratic Senator, he is president pro tempore of the Senate, and the presiding officer in the absence of a Vice President.

Next in line of succession is the Secretary of State. Following in line is the Secretary of the Treasury. The succession includes all the appointed Cabinet members, in the order in which the Cabinet post was created by Congress.

No speaker of the House has ever succeeded a President who died in office. In fact, no former speaker has ever become President.

No Secretary of State has become President through the line of succession. Some Presidents have, however, been Secretary of State. Thomas Jefferson is one (he was also a former Vice President), and James Madison, James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren (also a former Vice President), and James Buchanan.

Vice Presidents who have become Presidents are John Adams, Jefferson, Van Buren, John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, Chester A. Arthur, Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, Harry S. Truman, and now Lyndon Johnson. Of these, all succeeded Presidents who died in office, except Adams and Jefferson.

There are some who think the Chief Justice of the United States is in line for the Presidency. This is not so. The Chief Justice is appointed to his post for life. Interestingly, though, a former President, William Howard Taft, became Chief Justice of the U. S., and so did a former Presidential candidate, Charles Evans Hughes.

These Days

Johnson's Appeal

It was George Bevel, the man who directed the public relations end of the 1960 Citizens Committee for Lyndon Johnson, who was speaking.

"It's curious," he said. "Back in 1960, when we hoped to nominate Lyndon, we got out a forty-page booklet defining him in relation to the ten most important issues then confronting the U. S. people. As I look back on it, there wasn't a thing that Johnson was equivocal about. Yet today, there are those who wonder where he will come to rest on a lot of things. I don't see where there is any mystery."

Bevel, a Texan who has set down new roots in New York City and Washington, doing organizing work for the next Democratic convention, thinks that Johnson is especially constituted to appeal to the North. There are two big reasons for this. One, Johnson has the sort of temperament that should enable him to get along with the business community — "provided, of course, that it doesn't pull any rough stuff."

"Look at it this way," said Bevel. "Johnson is perhaps the best sampler of minds in the country; he keeps his promises; he is tolerant of all points of view until he has arrived at a decision, and then, having arrived at a consensus, he is intolerant of the backbiting and intrigue of second-guessers; he is a born organizer; and he probably knows as much about foreign trade as anybody in government. Why wouldn't business look to such a man for strengthening the economic position of the country?"

The Johnson "feel" for things, in Mr. Bevel's estimation, should be particularly apparent in relation to Latin America. "People think of Johnson as being a 'domestic' politician," he said. "But no man who ran the Senate Policy Committee could be ignorant of foreign affairs. Coming from Texas, Johnson is an aficionado about Mexico. He has no prejudices that get in the way of seeing the Latin American temperament for what it is. As a young man he taught school in South Texas—if you look it up, I think you'll find it was an all-Mexican school. It was in Acapulco, Mexico, that I was interviewed by Johnson in 1960, at the instance of John Connally, now the Texas governor, for my Citizens Committee job.

"Johnson has always been in and out of Mexico. On one of his trips he persuaded the Mexican President, Lopez Mateos, to visit his ranch at Johnson City. Lopez was a little concerned about possible discrimination against his person in Texas. Johnson set his mind to rest on that score.

The point about this is that Johnson knows how to talk to Latin Americans—if it is at all possible, he is the man to deal with the Argentinians. He will certainly tighten things up in the balance of payments and foreign aid business. As for his not knowing Europe, this is nonsense. Chancellor Adenauer visited with Johnson in his office in the Senate back in 1960. Before the long chat was over, Johnson had made Adenauer promise to visit him in Texas on his next trip to the U.S. When Adenauer did come back to the U.S. he spent some time with Johnson at his ranch. Johnson knows how to bring people to him, and it wasn't for show, for the Adenauer promise was made before the election.

"The second reason for thinking that Johnson can appeal to the North is that he has been a real leader on civil rights. Just think of it, it was as a Texas Senator who had just recovered from a massive heart attack that Johnson engineered, if that is the word for it, the first civil rights bill since the Civil War. A couple of years after this he promised that if the Senate would not take up a new civil rights bill by 1960, he, Johnson, would introduce one personally. He kept his promise by attaching a civil rights rider to an innocuous bill — and nearly blew the roof off the Senate.

"The point is that Johnson was ahead of any northern Democrat in all this. I can't understand how liberals have missed it. If anything, he should be stronger in the North than in the South."

This is how Johnson appears to a Texan who, second only to John Connally, went all out to put "LBJ, all the way" into the White House in 1960.

Incentive To Block Goldwater In Connecticut

By Joseph Alsop

AVON, Conn.

Judging by this state, it is far too early to say—as so many are now saying—that the new political situation in the country will block the movement to make Sen. Barry Goldwater the Republican Presidential nominee.

Connecticut makes a particularly good test area, precisely because the tragic assassination of President Kennedy has revolutionized the entire outlook here. As will be recalled, this state led the Election Night list for Kennedy in 1960, giving him a majority above 90,000.

Once in the White House, moreover, he had gained even more support here. Hence he was universally expected to carry Connecticut next time by up to 200,000 votes, and perhaps by more.

While President Kennedy lived, therefore, no rational Republican had the smallest hope of beating Connecticut's Democratic Senator, Thomas Dodd, and the five Democratic Representatives who are up for re-election. Indeed, Connecticut's sole Republican member of the House, Abner Sibal, was generally thought to be in grave danger.

Even so, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller seemed almost certain to gather in the Connecticut delegates to the Republican Convention — until he remarried. Thereupon, however, former Sen. Prescott Bush made the first and the most damaging public attack on the Governor, calling on him to refrain from seeking the Presidential nomination on moral grounds.

From that day to this, no significant Connecticut Republican has come into the open for Rockefeller, although the Governor's political agent-in-chief, George Hinman, has been in constant touch with various leaders here. Meanwhile, the Goldwater supporters were making hay in Connecticut until President Kennedy was assassinated.

The heart of the Goldwater movement is in the rich suburban town of Greenwich, where the leaders are four masters of great fortunes, Gerrish Milliken, Jeremiah Milbank Jr., Lowell Weicker, and J. William Middendorf. Middendorf is also National Finance Chairman of the Goldwaterites, and Weicker has been First Selectman of Greenwich since the Goldwater faction overthrew the town's former progressive Republican leadership.

From this Greenwich base, which assures the most lavish financing, the Goldwater movement has rapidly extended outwards, into the rest of the state. The official leader, soon to be announced, is a former aspirant to the Governorship and the current Republican State Finance Chairman, Newman Marsilius.

Support for Goldwater by a substantial majority of township leaders is already being claimed. In each township (the basic political unit in this state) Goldwater organizations are already being formed at the grass-roots level. The object, obviously, is to hogtie the Connecticut Republican convention long before it convenes, and then to take the whole Connecticut delegation for Goldwater as it was taken for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

No effective obstacle to this scheme was visible anywhere prior to the loss of President Kennedy. This was the case although the hot-eyed Goldwaterites were in a decided minority among Connecticut Republicans, who generally lean to the progressive side.

The party as a whole was (and still is) split seven ways to Sunday, principally by the feud between the former and present chairmen, Edwin May and Searle Pinney. Besides being divided among themselves, even those Republicans who were most certain Goldwater would be poison in Connecticut were also certain no one could beat a Kennedy-led ticket here. Thus no effective opposition to Goldwater coalesced anywhere.

Now, however, everything has changed, or at least everything ought to change. President Johnson, while not unpopular, has none of the strong, sure support in Connecticut Kennedy had. In the abstract, it appears entirely possible that the loss of Kennedy can swing Connecticut into the Republican column in 1964.

"Against Lyndon Johnson, I think we can win here with anyone but Barry Goldwater," says a Republican leader who wishes to remain nameless, because he thinks he may end by having to give formal support to the conservative Republican hero. "And with the right kind of Presidential nominee, we ought then to have a chance to pick up Dodd's Senate seat and several House seats."

In other words, the Connecticut Republicans now have a powerful incentive to seek a Presidential candidate more attractive than Goldwater. The incentive is a packet of offices which the Democrats seemed sure to hold while Kennedy lived, but which may now be up for grabs.

Most Republicans agree with the man above-quoted, that these offices will not be up for grabs if Goldwater is the Republican nominee. Against Goldwater, it is generally felt, Johnson ought to get something like the Connecticut majority that Kennedy got last time.

Yet the Rockefeller remarriage continues to discourage party support for him; and everyone glumly asks, "Who else is there, except Gov. Scranton, who won't make a move?" That is why it may be premature to say Goldwater is blocked.

Because of the prohibition, many foreign countries retaliate and do not permit American residents in their countries to operate amateur radio stations.

This situation bars many Americans from participating in a hobby that has proved helpful to governments and people in times of crisis and disaster.

Goldwater, who in his political capacity has shown extreme sensitivity to national security, says there are no risks in this area involved in the proposed law change.

Jet airplanes, diplomatic pouches and cables are the preferred media used by spies to transmit their material to their home governments. The amateur band of the radio spectrum is far too crowded and too well monitored to permit productive espionage communications.

There are more than 300,000 amateur radio operators in the world, constantly talking to one another. And the vast majority of them favor the law change.

A Virus May Be Responsible For Leukemia

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Evidence continues to mount that leukemia is caused by a virus. This does not necessarily mean that the disease is contagious or can be passed to others by the victim. It indicates a virus is capable of initiating leukemia in much the same way as streptococci trigger an attack of rheumatic fever.

Strep do their dirty work 10 days to two weeks before the development of fever and painful, swollen joints. Another similarity is that in leukemia, the virus attacks long before blood abnormalities and swollen glands are noted.

This may explain why leukemia seldom occurs in more than one member of a family. Only three such families were found in one study of 182 patients. In the first, a father and son died; in the second and third, cousins were affected. Two cases have been reported in which infants born of a leukemic mother developed the disease several months after birth.

There also are seasonal variations in the incidence of leukemia. December and June are the peak months. The greatest number of cases of rheumatic fever occur in February and March, when strep infections are common.

The viral concept of leukemia received impetus from outbreaks in several communities in this country and elsewhere. In Niles, Ill., eight children suffered from the disease between the fall of 1957 and the summer of 1960. They all came from one residential area. Seven had attended the same parochial schools or had brothers or sisters who went there. The eighth victim had playmates in this school.

Blood studies showed antibodies against leukemia in some members of the families, indicating they had been exposed. These antibodies were not noted in leukemia-free families. The question arises, are some people susceptible and others resistant to leukemia?

BONE BENDING

H. R. writes: Why do the bones of some people become soft and flexible?

REPLY

Softening of the bones may be due to osteoporosis or osteomalacia. Many factors are involved in osteoporosis: a glandular deficiency, disuse, malnutrition, or a disease like hyperthyroidism or diabetes. In still others, no cause can be found. Osteomalacia is due to too little calcium and phosphorus in the body. The cause may be lack of absorption or too much excretion of these minerals. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on these bone conditions.

CHILLY BROW

Mrs. J. V. K. writes: I have a cold forehead—not all the time, but now and then. Is there some way to relieve this condition?

REPLY

Cover your forehead with your warm hand if coldness is bothersome. Otherwise, forget it. This symptom has no significance.

WADDLING GAIT

M. S. writes: What causes a duck waddle stance?

REPLY

Some persons have neurological conditions involving balance. They walk with the legs far apart to maintain stability. In children, a duck waddle gait usually means dislocation of both hips.

SQUIRMING WORM

C. I. R. writes: Could a worm in the stomach cause belching?

REPLY

No, not even when it turns.

TOMORROW: Swallowing disturbances.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A sad-eyed stranger sat down in the snack bar of a Memphis hotel and instructed the waitress, "Bring me some warm orange juice, two pieces of dry toast burned to a crisp, a couple of underfried eggs on a dirty plate, and a cup of coffee that tastes like mud." The waitress grinned, and in short order returned with a full tray. "Are you sure there's nothing else I can do for you?" she inquired. "There IS one thing more," nodded the stranger. "You can sit down and nag me. I'm homesick."

A dull and conceited man-about-town accosted Miss Beatrice Lillie at a dinner one evening and said loudly, "I believe you invited me to a party at your hotel last Wednesday." "That's possible," admitted Miss Lillie cheerfully. "Tell me, did you come?"

Advice to malicious book reviewers from that master Stephen

Potter: "Friendly attacks should begin with faint praise, but be careful not to use adjectives or phrases of which the publisher can make use in advertisements. Safe faint praise adjectives are 'well produced' and 'painstaking.' Also effective is 'The illustrations and maps are adequate.'"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Never mind the name. That's what I call a wild hotel. On Saturday it reaches its peak. That's when the 90-year-old bucks lead their 80-year-old ladies down to the lobby to find chairs near the television set so that they can watch the Jackie Gleason Show. They think he's a card. They laugh before he says anything because they can't hear it even when the volume is up.

We were there three days. We were waiting out a wind. It came down out of the north like a long freight train and it bucked the Gulf Stream, going in the opposite direction. The waves built up like peeked bungalows. All the boats intending to cross over to the Jack Tarr at Grand Bahama stayed right in the marina, riding their mooring lines like fettered hula queens.

One elderly lady followed me onto an elevator and whacked me across the hip with her cane. Boy, did we laungh. I never saw so many dentures in my life. If they were all placed in front of the hotel, they'd look like a mother-of-pearl rock garden. At 10 p. m. the hotel is as dead as the Bunny Hug. The elevator remains at the ground floor. The boy who runs it dozes with his chin on his chest.

He also parks cars. Two lights are left on in the lobby. The swish of a palm tree outside sounds like Brahm's Funeral March, done with maracas. By day, all the guests sit around talking about the next meal. The little old ladies have their white hair frizzed up so tight it looks like lint on a golf ball. The men are straight as ramrods from the feet to the hips. The rest is bent so far forward that when they look straight ahead they're staring at the rug.

We had brought our boat down from Leon Hodges' dock in Lake Park, so we were a little bent too. In fact, the most flattering thing that happened was that the lively old timers invited us to join the club. We drove across the bridge to Worth Avenue and dined at Ta-Boo. This is a restaurant full of the old Palm Beach Crowd. The men wear gay blazers and dance with ladies who wear gauzy dresses which appear to be nightgowns. The place is run by big Jim Peterson, who used to pitch for Connie Mack, and his wife Danger, who pitches for Jim.

I told Danger that we stopped in to get away from the Confederate Veterans in West Palm Beach. She pointed to an elderly couple. The husband is in his seventies and they bought a house near a school.

Peterson sat with Pierre Salinger, playing a new game. Only two can participate. Each one puts four quarters on the table. Jim covers the eight quarters with a handkerchief. Each man reaches underneath and draws out a quarter. Then Peterson says: "Will you give me a dollar for what's left under the handkerchief? Salinger says "Sure," because he knows that there are six quarters left. He pays.

"I think I'm doing this trick wrong," Peterson says. He takes the dollar. He is lying. Jim is doing the trick correctly, and he wins on the deal. Don't ask me how — try it and you'll see. It is guaranteed to start an argument in every family. A new one, that is.

Danger, a tiny doll with black hair, always wears a ringlet of small flowers on her head. Some people think it's a hat. She makes a new one every day. Her real name is Eleanor, but only her mother calls her that. Like her husband, she's a kidder. One night a priest came into the restaurant and asked her what kind of a proper name Danger might be.

"Father," she said, "don't tell me that you don't study your Bible. Remember the part where Salome wants the head of John the Baptist? It was brought in on a platter, you will recall. Well, who mopped up the spilled blood, Father? St. Dangerina, right?" He nodded wisely. "Saint Dangerina" he murmured. "Ah, yes."

We waited out the wind for three days. It moved slightly, from 12 o'clock to 3. The big tankers, riding south to Key West and up the Gulf for oil, lifted their ballasted bows high in the green, hung there, and then fell back. That sea was no place for our boat. Neither was that hotel.

So we took the craft down the inland waterway to Hallandale. There were just the two of us. On both sides of the big creek are more beautiful homes than I've seen anywhere in the world. The designs are bright and gay, the landscaping is lovely, the swimming pools surrounded by white tile are a treat to the eye. Kelly window-shopped all the way.

Me? I kept thinking of that wild hotel. Some evening I'm going to walk in that lobby with an open bottle of beer in my hand and I'm going to yell: "Let's start an orgy." . . .

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

These are, indeed, the melancholy days (as the poets have it) for any Weather Man. He's either being laughed at and derided for being so wrong, or hated (confound him, anyway!) for being right.

A farm publication reveals that 60 per cent of the United States' annual cranberry crop is grown in Massachusetts. Most appropriate, because isn't that one of the states where the Thanksgiving idea originated?

Westernport To Get Radar Speed Meter

Signs To Be Placed Throughout Town

WESTERNPORT—The purchase of a radar speed meter and carrying case at a cost of $1,377 was authorized by the Mayor and council Monday night during a regular meeting.

An ordinance adopted at the November 4 meeting incorporates the use of radar equipment to curb excessive vehicular speeding in the corporate limits and provides that the violation of designated maximum speed limits disclosed by the electronic device may be admitted as evidence in court hearings.

The town officials also decided to order six signs for radar speed check to be placed at incoming traffic areas throughout the community.

The community Christmas tree will be located near the intersection of Main and Church streets as in past years and a lighted Christmas tree will be placed at the filter plant on Chestnut Street, said Mayor Ray L. Wilt.

In a communication from the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, town employes and members of the Potomac Fire Company were thanked for assistance in cleaning up a load of sludge which accidentally dropped on Rock and Vine streets and the Luke Road recently due to a broken tail gate on one of their trucks.

The company said it plans to present the fire company with two portable oxygen tents and a first aid kit suitable for use on the fire truck.

Michael Cowatch appeared at the meeting in reference to an unusually large water bill. He was notified that his water meter will be checked and an adjustment made according to the findings.

The council also decided to make temporary repairs on Riordan Road.

Mrs. Phillip Hartig, town clerk, Francis Mertz and Ellis Friend will take their vacations next week.

FHA Loans Available Now To Help Counter Damage Caused By Drought

SOMERSET, Pa. — Loan program of the Farmers Home Administration can help counter the damage caused by the drought in this area, Ira E. Moumgis, local supervisor of the agency said this week.

Mr. Moumgis said his agency provides emergency loans to help individual farmers maintain normal operations even though their fields, crops and livestock have been damaged by drought. Emergency loans enable farmers to avoid selling off livestock, machinery and other capital assets needed to operate their farms. In addition, the local FHA county supervisor emphasized that other loan programs available to farmers and others in the area can be of direct importance in lessening or even eliminating future drought hazards.

"FHA loans available to individual farmers, associations and small towns finance such projects as farm ponds and other water storage construction, community water and irrigation systems, and dam and reservoir construction in small watersheds," Mr. Moumgis said.

FHA loan programs are one of the most effective weapons available to farmers and others living in rural areas to overcome the immediate effects of drought. In addition, they also help communities and farmers assure future water supplies and thus avoid serious water shortages over the long run."

Recently Somerset, Westmoreland and Allegheny Counties were designated for emergency loan assistance due to the drought. Mr. Moumgis said these loans may be used by farmers to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, replacement equipmnt and livestock and for other items needed to maintain normal farming operations.

The interest rate on emergency loans is 3 per cent. FHA reschedules repayment according to when the borrower can resume normal operations.

Mr. Moumgis reported that several FHA loan programs can be effective in financing long-range measures that combat the impact of the drought in an area.

Loans secured by real estate and farm chattels are available to farmers for a variety of farm development and improvement measures, including soil and water conservation, water supply improvement and reforestation.

FHA also extends credit to individual farmers specifically for water resource development. This includes installation of on-farm water systems for irrigation, household use, and livestock; drainage of farmland; and building of farm water storage structures such as ponds.

Loans of up to $1,000,000 are made by FHA to small towns and associations of farmers and other rural residents to install community water systems for farm and home use, and to groups of farmers to develop water systems for farm irrigation. These loans also can be used by groups of farmers and other rural residents to purchase and develop land for new, and more productive uses, for example, improvement of grazing areas, reforestation, development of wetlands for wildlife and recreation. These and other similar uses can contribute to a community's water management programs.

FHA loans also help communities and associations finance local costs of small water shed projects, for such projects as stream control, upstream conservation on farmland, and water storage for farm and municipal use.

Inquiries regarding the agency's assistance in improving water supplies available to individual farmers and communities and financing operations on farms already affected by the drought can be made at Mr. Moumgis' office. The office serving Somerset, Westmoreland and Allegheny Counties is located at 130 West Main Street, Somerset, Pa.

Frostburg Sewage Is Discussed

FROSTBURG—The main item of business at Monday night's meeting of the Mayor and Council was a discussion concerning the proposed sewage plan for the city.

Mayor Joseph E. James read a letter from the LaVale Sanitary Commission which stated that the group would cooperate with Frostburg in transporting sewage through its system into Cumberland where it would be treated in the plant there. However, the letter continued, due to financing through the government LaVale must have a definite answer from the city by December 31 as to its intentions. Otherwise, the Commission would begin processing their applications with the federal government.

Council instructed John Sullivan, city attorney to attend a meeting of the Allegany County Commissioners this morning in Cumberland and inform them that on October 22, 1963 the city approved the feasibility report prepared by Albert S. Paye, county engineer, which called for Frostburg to collect its sewage and dump it into lines to be constructed east through Eckhart to LaVale where the lines would connect with LaVale's system which, in turn, connected with Cumberland. All sewage from the Braddock Run area and Frostburg would be treated at the Cumberland plant. Estimated figures of costs were also presented.

Sullivan was also instructed to advise the commissioners that council accepted an invitation from the Allegany County Sanitary Commission, extended through Secretary Alvin Rankin, to attend a meeting November 27 at the Court House with Thomas Shives, State Health Department; John B. Gillett, engineer for Whitman, Requardt and Associates, engineers for the LaVale Commission, and Paye. The meeting was cancelled by the Allegany Sanitary Commission which stated that Frostburg was invited by error as the session was for the engineers only.

Council pointed out that the city is ready to meet with the county and LaVale commissions as soon as possible to get the project going as all major construction in Frostburg, such as the 50-unit apartment building for the Frostburg Housing Authority, is being held up until sewage is provided.

The town officials also decided to order six signs for radar speed check to be placed at incoming traffic areas throughout the community.

The community Christmas tree will be located near the intersection of Main and Church streets as in past years and a lighted Christmas tree will be placed at the filter plant on Chestnut Street, said Mayor Ray L. Wilt.

In a communication from the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, town employes and members of the Potomac Fire Company were thanked for assistance in cleaning up a load of sludge which accidentally dropped on Rock and Vine streets and the Luke Road recently due to a broken tail gate on one of their trucks.

The company said it plans to present the fire company with two portable oxygen tents and a first aid kit suitable for use on the fire truck.

Michael Cowatch appeared at the meeting in reference to an unusually large water bill. He was notified that his water meter will be checked and an adjustment made according to the findings.

The council also decided to make temporary repairs on Riordan Road.

Mrs. Phillip Hartig, town clerk, Francis Mertz and Ellis Friend will take their vacations next week.

FHA Loans Available Now To Help Counter Damage Caused By Drought

SOMERSET, Pa. — Loan program of the Farmers Home Administration can help counter the damage caused by the drought in this area, Ira E. Moumgis, local supervisor of the agency said this week.

Mr. Moumgis said his agency provides emergency loans to help individual farmers maintain normal operations even though their fields, crops and livestock have been damaged by drought. Emergency loans enable farmers to avoid selling off livestock, machinery and other capital assets needed to operate their farms. In addition, the local FHA county supervisor emphasized that other loan programs available to farmers and others in the area can be of direct importance in lessening or even eliminating future drought hazards.

"FHA loans available to individual farmers, associations and small towns finance such projects as farm ponds and other water storage construction, community water and irrigation systems, and dam and reservoir construction in small watersheds," Mr. Moumgis said.

FHA loan programs are one of the most effective weapons available to farmers and others living in rural areas to overcome the immediate effects of drought. In addition, they also help communities and farmers assure future water supplies and thus avoid serious water shortages over the long run."

Recently Somerset, Westmoreland and Allegheny Counties were designated for emergency loan assistance due to the drought. Mr. Moumgis said these loans may be used by farmers to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, replacement equipmnt and livestock and for other items needed to maintain normal farming operations.

The interest rate on emergency loans is 3 per cent. FHA reschedules repayment according to when the borrower can resume normal operations.

Mr. Moumgis reported that several FHA loan programs can be effective in financing long-range measures that combat the impact of the drought in an area.

Loans secured by real estate and farm chattels are available to farmers for a variety of farm development and improvement measures, including soil and water conservation, water supply improvement and reforestation.

FHA also extends credit to individual farmers specifically for water resource development. This includes installation of on-farm water systems for irrigation, household use, and livestock; drainage of farmland; and building of farm water storage structures such as ponds.

Loans of up to $1,000,000 are made by FHA to small towns and associations of farmers and other rural residents to install community water systems for farm and home use, and to groups of farmers to develop water systems for farm irrigation. These loans also can be used by groups of farmers and other rural residents to purchase and develop land for new, and more productive uses, for example, improvement of grazing areas, reforestation, development of wetlands for wildlife and recreation. These and other similar uses can contribute to a community's water management programs.

FHA loans also help communities and associations finance local costs of small water shed projects, for such projects as stream control, upstream conservation on farmland, and water storage for farm and municipal use.

Inquiries regarding the agency's assistance in improving water supplies available to individual farmers and communities and financing operations on farms already affected by the drought can be made at Mr. Moumgis' office. The office serving Somerset, Westmoreland and Allegheny Counties is located at 130 West Main Street, Somerset, Pa.

School Principal To Head Fund Drive In This Area

FROSTBURG — Dr. Robert G. Shadick, principal of the Thomas G. Pullen School, has been appointed Ambassador Chairman for the Columbia University Teachers College Fund for Frostburg. Frostburg Sewage Is Discussed

FROSTBURG—The main item of business at Monday night's meeting of the Mayor and Council was a discussion concerning the proposed sewage plan for the city.

Mayor Joseph E. James read a letter from the LaVale Sanitary Commission which stated that the group would cooperate with Frostburg in transporting sewage through its system into Cumberland where it would be treated in the plant there. However, the letter continued, due to financing through the government LaVale must have a definite answer from the city by December 31 as to its intentions. Otherwise, the Commission would begin processing their applications with the federal government.

Council instructed John Sullivan, city attorney to attend a meeting of the Allegany County Commissioners this morning in Cumberland and inform them that on October 22, 1963 the city approved the feasibility report prepared by Albert S. Paye, county engineer, which called for Frostburg to collect its sewage and dump it into lines to be constructed east through Eckhart to LaVale where the lines would connect with LaVale's system which, in turn, connected with Cumberland. All sewage from the Braddock Run area and Frostburg would be treated at the Cumberland plant. Estimated figures of costs were also presented.

Sullivan was also instructed to advise the commissioners that council accepted an invitation from the Allegany County Sanitary Commission, extended through Secretary Alvin Rankin, to attend a meeting November 27 at the Court House with Thomas Shives, State Health Department; John B. Gillett, engineer for Whitman, Requardt and Associates, engineers for the LaVale Commission, and Paye. The meeting was cancelled by the Allegany Sanitary Commission which stated that Frostburg was invited by error as the session was for the engineers only.

Council pointed out that the city is ready to meet with the county and LaVale commissions as soon as possible to get the project going as all major construction in Frostburg, such as the 50-unit apartment building for the Frostburg Housing Authority, is being held up until sewage is provided.

San Francisco Giants And Milwaukee Figure In 6-Player Swap

Braves Obtain Felipe Alou, Hoeft, Bailey

West Coast Team Gets Shaw, Hendley And Del Crandall

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI(— The San Francisco Giants swapped Felipe Alou, Ed Bailey, Billy Hoeft and a player to be named later to the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday for Bob Shaw, Bob Hendley and Del Crandall.

Key figure in the seven-player deal was Alou, the 28-year-old outfielder, who was sought by more than half a dozen clubs in the current winter baseball meetings.

Announcement of the trade was made jointly by President John McHale of the Braves and Vice President Chub Feeney of the Giants. The managers of both clubs, Bobby Bragan and Alvin Dark, also were present for the announcement.

Add Speed, Hitting

McHale, explaining Milwaukee's position in the trade, said "we needed some speed and some hitting on our club. Alou and Bailey (a catcher) will give us the hitting and we think Alou will also contribute to our speed. Any time you give up two pitchers like we did, you can assume that we will have to add some pitching later."

From Milwaukee's standpoint, the principal figure in the transaction was the 24-year-old left-handed Hendley, who is considered one of the National League's more promising pitchers despite a modest 9-9 record and 3.94 earned run average the past season.

Crandall, 33-year-old veteran catcher who batted only .201 this year, played in only 86 games for the Braves.

Bailey, on the other hand, hit 21 homers and drove in 68 runs while batting .263 in 105 games for the Giants.

Dark explained that Hendley will be used in the starting rotation and that the 30-year-old Shaw will be utilized in both starting and relief assignments.

Shaw won only 7 games and lost 11, but had a .266 earned run average.

Shaw Aids in Bullpen

The Giant manager explained that the club lost a lot of games in the late innings and needed help in the bullpen. "That fellow (Shaw) I'm sure can do the job."

Shaw was a key contributor to the Chicago White Sox' pennant drive in 1959 and won a World Series game that year.

Dark said that Alou's younger brother, Jesus, would be the leading candidate for the right field position vacated by Felipe in view of Tuesday's deal. Another brother, Matty, also plays outfield for the Giants.

Hoeft, who previously pitched for the Tigers and Orioles, appeared in 23 games for the Giants last season, winning two and losing none.

The trade was the second made at the baseball meeting. Earlier, the Los Angeles Angels dealt outfielder Leon Wagner to the Cleveland Indians for pitcher Barry Latman and another player to be named later.

Liberty Bowl Game Reset For Dec. 21

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Liberty Bowl football game, running into a television sponsor's roadblock, will be played on Dec. 21—as originally scheduled—instead of on Dec. 28.

The date was put off last cause of postponements of numerous games after President Kennedy's assassination.

The National Broadcasting Co. said it had tried to clear the later date but was balked by "a sponsor conflict."

The host team for the contest is still to be chosen.

Twin Double Pays Record $37,529 At Pimlico Track

Baltimore Bettor Collects, Refuses To Reveal Name

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's largest twin double payoff — $37,528 for $2 — was recorded at Pimlico Tuesday when Gay Boy, a $76.40-for-$2 long shot, win the fourth race.

The twin double is based on the results of the 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th races.

Following Gay Boy, the winners in order were Face Up, $19.80; Fancy Frankie, $8.40, and Thanks Doc, $9.20.

The program numbers of the winners were 9-3-1-8.

According to the amount in the special twin double pool, there was only one $2 ticket winner.

The previous high twin double in Maryland was the $33,794 returned at Bowie on Oct. 16.

A well-dressed young man from Baltimore collected the check, but refused to reveal his name.

"No publicity," he said. "I don't want all my friends and neighbors hounding me. Just tell me what to do about the income tax situation."

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy used a balanced scoring attack to defeat Baltimore University 77-60 Tuesday in its first basketball game of the season.

Joe Binder of Baltimore was high for the game with 21 points.

The teams played almost even in the second half after Navy took a 42-29 halftime lead.

San Francisco Giants And Milwaukee Figure In 6-Player Swap

Braves Obtain Felipe Alou, Hoeft, Bailey

West Coast Team Gets Shaw, Hendley And Del Crandall

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— The San Francisco Giants swapped Felipe Alou, Ed Bailey, Billy Hoeft and a player to be named later to the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday for Bob Shaw, Bob Hendley and Del Crandall.

Key figure in the seven-player deal was Alou, the 28-year-old outfielder, who was sought by more than half a dozen clubs in the current winter baseball meetings.

Announcement of the trade was made jointly by President John McHale of the Braves and Vice President Chub Feeney of the Giants. The managers of both clubs, Bobby Bragan and Alvin Dark, also were present for the announcement.

Add Speed, Hitting

McHale, explaining Milwaukee's position in the trade, said "we needed some speed and some hitting on our club. Alou and Bailey (a catcher) will give us the hitting and we think Alou will also contribute to our speed. Any time you give up two pitchers like we did, you can assume that we will have to add some pitching later."

From Milwaukee's standpoint, the principal figure in the transaction was the 24-year-old left-handed Hendley, who is considered one of the National League's more promising pitchers despite a modest 9-9 record and 3.94 earned run average the past season.

Crandall, 33-year-old veteran catcher who batted only .201 this year, played in only 86 games for the Braves.

Bailey, on the other hand, hit 21 homers and drove in 68 runs while batting .263 in 105 games for the Giants.

Dark explained that Hendley will be used in the starting rotation and that the 30-year-old Shaw will be utilized in both starting and relief assignments.

Shaw won only 7 games and lost 11, but had a .266 earned run average.

Shaw Aids in Bullpen

The Giant manager explained that the club lost a lot of games in the late innings and needed help in the bullpen. "That fellow (Shaw) I'm sure can do the job."

Shaw was a key contributor to the Chicago White Sox' pennant drive in 1959 and won a World Series game that year.

Dark said that Alou's younger brother, Jesus, would be the leading candidate for the right field position vacated by Felipe in view of Tuesday's deal. Another brother, Matty, also plays outfield for the Giants.

Hoeft, who previously pitched for the Tigers and Orioles, appeared in 23 games for the Giants last season, winning two and losing none.

The trade was the second made at the baseball meeting. Earlier, the Los Angeles Angels dealt outfielder Leon Wagner to the Cleveland Indians for pitcher Barry Latman and another player to be named later.

Liberty Bowl Game Reset For Dec. 21

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Liberty Bowl football game, running into a television sponsor's roadblock, will be played on Dec. 21—as originally scheduled—instead of on Dec. 28.

The date was put off last cause of postponements of numerous games after President Kennedy's assassination.

The National Broadcasting Co. said it had tried to clear the later date but was balked by "a sponsor conflict."

The host team for the contest is still to be chosen.

YMCA Has Openings For Volley Ball And Cage League Teams

There are still openings for any teams that are interested in participating in the Y.M.C.A. Senior Men's-Church Basketball League or the Senior Men's Volleyball League. Because of the present national situation, the league program of the "Y" has been pushed ahead until next week.

The volley-ball program is in good position with five teams already indicating that they will be in the league this year. All games will be played on Monday nights throughout the season. There is an opening for at least two more teams in this program.

The basketball league is having a problem of getting enough teams interested in its program. The objective of the league is to get those men that still have some desire to play ball, but do not want to compete in too much "race-horse" basketball. It is expected that the league play will be tempered down as compared to previous years. As of now, there haven't been too many teams going for this program.

This league will begin next Wednesday night at 7:00 P.M. Any teams that want to get into either of these programs should contact the "Y" this week for registration.

White Named Pilot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ernie White, the New York Mets' pitching coach last season, Tuesday was named manager of the Mets' Williamsport, Pa., farm club in the Eastern League.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain got out of a sick bed to lead the San Francisco Warriors to a 116-108 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Tuesday night before 4,783 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Duquesne Defeats St. Francis, 83-79

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Duquesne put on a desperation freeze in the final minutes Tuesday night to defeat St. Francis 83-79.

The Dukes, winning their second straight game, had a 12-point lead midway through the second half but saw the margin whittled down to 81-79 with less than two minutes remaining.

Duquesne then went into the freeze. Willie Somerset was fouled and sank two shots to put the game on ice.

YMCA Has Openings For Volley Ball And Cage League Teams

There are still openings for any teams that are interested in participating in the Y.M.C.A. Senior Men's-Church Basketball League or the Senior Men's Volleyball League. Because of the present national situation, the league program of the "Y" has been pushed ahead until next week.

The volley-ball program is in good position with five teams already indicating that they will be in the league this year. All games will be played on Monday nights throughout the season. There is an opening for at least two more teams in this program.

The basketball league is having a problem of getting enough teams interested in its program. The objective of the league is to get those men that still have some desire to play ball, but do not want to compete in too much "race-horse" basketball. It is expected that the league play will be tempered down as compared to previous years. As of now, there haven't been too many teams going for this program.

This league will begin next Wednesday night at 7:00 P.M. Any teams that want to get into either of these programs should contact the "Y" this week for registration.

White Named Pilot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ernie White, the New York Mets' pitching coach last season, Tuesday was named manager of the Mets' Williamsport, Pa., farm club in the Eastern League.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain got out of a sick bed to lead the San Francisco Warriors to a 116-108 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Tuesday night before 4,783 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement, the death of Bonnie Gaye Phillips. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.

Walter Phillips Family

We wish to thank our friends, relatives and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during our recent bereavement in the death of our beloved husband and father, William Carr Smith. We thank those who sent flowers, loaned cars and helped in other ways. To Pastor McClain and the choir we are all most grateful.

His Wife and Family

We wish to take the pleasure of thanking our many friends and neighbors who sent flowers and donated cars in the death of our beloved son, George R. Schaidt, Jr. who died November 17. We especially wish to thank the Doctors and nurses at Memorial Hospital for the splendid service given our son while being a patient there, and to Rev. Tatem, pastor of the Assembly of God Church here.

Sadly missed by his family, Mr. and Mrs. Reginol Schaidt

In Memoriam

In loving memory of James M. Gordon who passed away 1 year ago today, December 2, 1962.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your empty place,
Sadly missed by wife, son, daughter and their families.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement, the death of Bonnie Gaye Phillips. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.

Walter Phillips Family

We wish to thank our friends, relatives and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during our recent bereavement in the death of our beloved husband and father, William Carr Smith. We thank those who sent flowers, loaned cars and helped in other ways. To Pastor McClain and the choir we are all most grateful.

His Wife and Family

We wish to take the pleasure of thanking our many friends and neighbors who sent flowers and donated cars in the death of our beloved son, George R. Schaidt, Jr. who died November 17. We especially wish to thank the Doctors and nurses at Memorial Hospital for the splendid service given our son while being a patient there, and to Rev. Tatem, pastor of the Assembly of God Church here.

Sadly missed by his family, Mr. and Mrs. Reginol Schaidt

In Memoriam

In loving memory of James M. Gordon who passed away 1 year ago today, December 2, 1962.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your empty place,
Sadly missed by wife, son, daughter and their families.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten years ago our son married a girl who teaches psychology. Since we live in a distant city we don't see them very often. Judging by our last visit, perhaps it's just as well.

Their eight-year-old son says and does whatever comes to his mind. He is rude and disrespectful, interrupts adults when they are speaking, and behaves as if the whole world revolves around him.

One evening when the boy was watching TV his mother asked him to put his bicycle in the garage. He replied, "Drop dead."

She ignored his remark and put the bicycle away herself. Later that evening I told her I thought the boy should not be allowed to speak to her that way. She answered, "All children sometimes wish their parents were dead. I believe in allowing our son the freedom to express himself instead of burying his hostility."

I was so stunned I could not reply. I am still unable to get over it. Is she crazy or am I?—SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: I doubt that she's crazy but I certainly can't say much for her approach to child rearing. A child's hostilities should be worked off but there are better ways than getting lippy with parents.

Children who are permitted to say and do anything they please grow up to be obnoxious. And they often have a tough time adjusting to a world which will not tolerate such guff.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I feel compelled to defend a great lady who is unable to defend herself—Mother Nature. You were comforting the flat-chested girl and encouraging her to fill with cotton what God had forgotten.

Every human being is made with the genes supplied by the parents. Why then blame Mother Nature? It's just as though someone gave you all the materials with which to build a house — and didn't include anything for a porch.

You gave the girl good advice but you didn't go far enough. You should have told her that when she selects a mate she should take a good look at his mother, his sisters and his aunts. If a flat-chested woman chooses a husband from a flat-chested family the chances are good that her daughters will be in no better shape than she's in. — OL' COTTON PICKER

DEAR OL' COTTON PICKER—Heaven help us when THIS becomes a consideration in selecting a husband. People are already getting married for wacky enough reasons without adding this to the list.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you help me? I always feel so stupid when I must make a condolence call because I never know how to express my sympathy to someone who has lost someone close.

It's not too difficult if the person is a casual acquaintance. I simply say, "You have my sympathy." But when a dear friend or a close relative has died that phrase seems empty and inadequate.

Are there any special rules of conduct when calling on the bereaved? Recently we made such a call at a neighbor's home and it looked as if a party was in progress. I mentioned to my husband that I though this was disrespectful. He said it was good for the rebreaved to have a little laughter and levity in the house.

Thank you for any information you can give me.—EDNA

DEAR EDNA: It's your presence rather than your words that count. A warm handshake or a caress is far more meaningful than anything you could say.

Light conversation is not out of place in a home of mourning. Music, joke-telling, or dancing is obviously not in good taste.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelop

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten years ago our son married a girl who teaches psychology. Since we live in a distant city we don't see them very often. Judging by our last visit, perhaps it's just as well.

Their eight-year-old son says and does whatever comes to his mind. He is rude and disrespectful, interrupts adults when they are speaking, and behaves as if the whole world revolves around him.

One evening when the boy was watching TV his mother asked him to put his bicycle in the garage. He replied, "Drop dead."

She ignored his remark and put the bicycle away herself. Later that evening I told her I thought the boy should not be allowed to speak to her that way. She answered, "All children sometimes wish their parents were dead. I believe in allowing our son the freedom to express himself instead of burying his hostility."

I was so stunned I could not reply. I am still unable to get over it. Is she crazy or am I?—SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: I doubt that she's crazy but I certainly can't say much for her approach to child rearing. A child's hostilities should be worked off but there are better ways than getting lippy with parents.

Children who are permitted to say and do anything they please grow up to be obnoxious. And they often have a tough time adjusting to a world which will not tolerate such guff.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I feel compelled to defend a great lady who is unable to defend herself—Mother Nature. You were comforting the flat-chested girl and encouraging her to fill with cotton what God had forgotten.

Every human being is made with the genes supplied by the parents. Why then blame Mother Nature? It's just as though someone gave you all the materials with which to build a house — and didn't include anything for a porch.

You gave the girl good advice but you didn't go far enough. You should have told her that when she selects a mate she should take a good look at his mother, his sisters and his aunts. If a flat-chested woman chooses a husband from a flat-chested family the chances are good that her daughters will be in no better shape than she's in. — OL' COTTON PICKER

DEAR OL' COTTON PICKER—Heaven help us when THIS becomes a consideration in selecting a husband. People are already getting married for wacky enough reasons without adding this to the list.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you help me? I always feel so stupid when I must make a condolence call because I never know how to express my sympathy to someone who has lost someone close.

It's not too difficult if the person is a casual acquaintance. I simply say, "You have my sympathy." But when a dear friend or a close relative has died that phrase seems empty and inadequate.

Are there any special rules of conduct when calling on the bereaved? Recently we made such a call at a neighbor's home and it looked as if a party was in progress. I mentioned to my husband that I though this was disrespectful. He said it was good for the rebreaved to have a little laughter and levity in the house.

Thank you for any information you can give me.—EDNA

DEAR EDNA: It's your presence rather than your words that count. A warm handshake or a caress is far more meaningful than anything you could say.

Light conversation is not out of place in a home of mourning. Music, joke-telling, or dancing is obviously not in good taste.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelop

Local Man Dies After Being Hit By Automobile

Roy R. Bohrer, 75, Injured Internally

A 75-year-old man was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital early yesterday evening after being struck by an automobile on Virginia Avenue.

City police identified the victim as Roy R. Bohrer of 618 Virginia Avenue, who sustained a fractured skull and pelvis and other internal injuries in the accident about 5:30 p. m. An autopsy was performed last night at the hospital.

Albert D. Stewart, 36-year-old Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant employe who lives at 118 Elder Street, was the driver of the automobile, police said.

The driver was released last night although the accident will be investigated further when local police confer with the state's attorney's office today.

The victim was hit by the left front fender of the auto which was proceeding in the 700 block of Virginia Avenue.

Mr. Bohrer, who stepped off the east curb, apparently became confused and walked into the path of the automobile, which, according to police, skidded 48 feet to the point of impact.

In the car with Mr. Stewart were his sister, Mrs. Ruth Nair, his brother-in-law, Roy Nair, and their son who were being driven to their home at 946 Gay Street.

PE Pushes $9 Million In Projects

Several Nearing Completion Now

With 1963 rapidly drawing to a close, an all-out effort is being made by Potomac Edison to complete its approximately $9 million program of line and substation construction for the year.

Despite unexpected difficulty on several projects, the construction program is generally on schedule.

PE officials said several major projects are expected to be completed shortly and others will be placed in service before the end of the year.

Among major projects currently under way are construction of a 34,500-volt line to serve a new AT&T installation on Hearthstone Mountain near Clear Spring and a new 34,500-volt line from Corriganville to Hyndman, Pa.

A number of major projects in this year's $9 million budget already have been completed.

One of them is the 47-mile 138,000-volt line from the Albright generating station in Preston County, W. Va., to Fort Ashby, W. Va., and a 138,000-volt tap of this line to serve the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company mill at Luke.

Officials want to make sure that the pact, which deals with the use the agency will make of funds set aside for planning the Center of the City general neighborhood Renewal Project, is complete.

The second conference will be with the staff which administers the Accelerated Public Works program and will deal with a proposal for obtaining funds, especially for the rehabilitation of the Lake Gordon gate chamber and installation of a pumping station at the reservoir. Attempts will be made to work out a technical legal difficulty encountered during the city's application for matching federal funds for the project.

City officials will also try, during this second conference, to get pledges of Accelerated Public Works funds for other projects here.

CUF Reaches 97.8 Per Cent Of 1963 Goal

Six Divisions Surpass Quotas

Paced by six divisions which surpassed their goals, the seventh County United Fund campaign rolled to 97.8 per cent of its mark yesterday as an official audit disclosed that a total of $385,831.45 has been contributed.

Overall target for the once-a-year, one-gift United appeal is $394,533.

Walter E. Dyck, manager of Works 7 of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and general campaign chairman, enthusiastically remarked that only $8,701.55 is needed to meet the 1963 goal, which was established after a careful study of the needs of the 28 participating health, social service and youth character building agencies was made.

He extended his congratulations and "thanks for a job well done" by the six divisions that exceeded their marks.

He commended the Big 7 Industrial Employes Division for making 102.6 per cent of its $150,000 goal, or $158,771.60; the Cumberland Golden Gifts Division, which realized 100.9 per cent of its goal, or $126,187.23; the Frostburg Classified Division for 118.7 per cent of its goal, or $5,578; Frostburg Golden Gifts Division for 108.3 per cent, or $8,123; Tri-Towns Classified Division for 106.7 per cent, or $1,333.14, and the Keyser Business Division, for 101.3 per cent, or $1,519.

Mr. Dyck indicated all that was needed now to reach the 1963 goal was for campaign leaders and CUF representatives to contact consistent CUF givers who have not yet been contacted.

"If this is done," Mr. Dyck said, "we will reach or even surpass the goal figure." He urged all workers to complete their tasks this week.

On the basis of yesterday's audit, one CUF campaign area surpassed its target. Frostburg area is leading in competition for the Ort Achievement Award trophy, won two years in a row by Cumberland, with 105.9 per cent of its goal with a total of $14,917.

Mr. Dyck cited the community service rendered in the campaign by the Frostburg United appeal leader and givers.

Area college students who wish to apply for Reserve Officer Candidate (ROC) training in the U.S. Naval Reserve have less than two weeks to submit advance applications.

These are due by December 15 but the completed applications are not required until next February 28.

To be eligible, the student must be in his freshman, sophomore or junior year at college, must be making satisfactory progress in his work there and must qualify mentally and physically. First Tracts Acquired For Rocky Gap Park

The first two properties needed for the proposed Rocky Gap State Park about six miles east of Cumberland have been acquired by the state for use of the Department of Forests and Parks.

Nearly 420 acres are included in the properties purchased by the state from Lester Raines and Bessie V. Raines, his wife, and Andrew N. McLuckie and Rebecca M. McLuckie, his wife.

The Raines property, a 187-acre farm in four different parcels, was sold through a deed filed for record November 18 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The McLuckie property, nearly 233 acres in three tracts, was included in a deed filed for record at the Court House Monday. Both farms are along Baltimore Pike and near its intersection with the Beans Cove Road, also known as the Pleasant Valley Road.

Acquisition of the properties by the state was handled by Paul W. Barnett, attorney.

The Rocky Gap State Park on the western slope of Martin Mountain has been a prime project of the Route 40 Association. Officials of the State Department of Forests and Parks, particularly William Parr, state supervisor of parks, have met with the Route 40 group to discuss the park on a number of occasions.

Rainfall Is Above Average In November

The total rainfall in Cumberland during November was 4.37 inches, according to the Weather Bureau, which indicated the amount was 1.09 inches over the November average.

The average daily temperature was 45.0 degrees which is 4.2 degrees above normal.

K. R. Taylor, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geological Survey of the U. S. Department of the Interior, said the observed mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River in Cumberland (the Wiley Ford gauge) during the month was 341 cubic feet per second or 220 million gallons per day which is 61 per cent of the 34 year November average.

The daily flow varied between 134 cubic feet per second or 86.6 million gallons per day on November 28 and 1,670 cfs (1,079 mgd) on November 8.

An equivalent of 9.9 cfs (6.4 mgd) was released from storage at the Savage River reservoir which is 2.9 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

Due to weather conditions which will affect the stream flow in this area in the form of ice and snow, no review of conditions will be made for the next three or four months, said Mr. Taylor.

Appeal Filed For Business

George Posselt, 1220 Frederick Street, has appealed to the Board of Zoning Appeals for permission to occupy Lots 49-53 in the 800 block of Frederick for business use.

His occupancy permit application included plans for constructing a two-story building, 50 by 25 feet, upon the property located in a Residential B zone.

In a letter read to the Mayor and Council Monday, Mr. Posselt argued that the area should be zoned for commercial purposes.

He said the 300-foot section located directly across from the Schmidt Bakery, is nothing more than a hillside and not adaptable for private residence but, due to its proximity to other businesses across the street, is a logical location for a neighborhood type of shopping center.

After the meeting, Mr. Posselt met with city officials who were reported sympathetic to his request.

The opinion was expressed, an informed source said, that the area in question will probably be classed as commercial when the proposed new zoning ordinance is adopted.

Opposition For Seneca Dam Seen Strong

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal for a high dam at Seneca, Md., a key recommendation for development of the Potomac River Basin, is expected to meet some strong opposition in Congress.

The Seneca dam and reservoir project — Seneca is roughly 15 miles upstream from Washington — is included in recommendations which the Board of Army Engineers for rivers and harbors sent to Lt. Gen. W. K. Wilson, chief of Army Engineers on Monday.

The board concurred in general with the development plan as formulated by the District and Division Engineers and which was made public last spring.

Virginia's senators, Harry F. Byrd and A. Willis Robertson, Democrats, have long opposed the high dam and its flooding of some 44,000 acres in Virginia and Maryland.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D - Va., said he also is opposed to the project.

"It would drown out too much land," he said, adding that he believes the answer lies in smaller dams upstream and on the Potomac's tributaries.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., said he is very much opposed to the Seneca proposal. He said it would flood one of the richest valleys in the world. He said he believes Washington can be supplied adequately with water by a series of smaller dams.

The over-all plan would cost about $500 million and would include 16 major reservoirs. They would be built over a series of years extending into the next century.

The first to be built is one already authorized by Congress, the Bloomington, Md., reservoir, whose recommended completion date is 1965 and whose estimated cost is $51 million.

Object of the plan is to meet municipal water needs and to provide flood protection.

The dam and reservoir project, estimated to cost $117 million, is recommended for completion in 1977.

There are several steps remaining before the plan reaches congress for possible authorization. The next step is for Wilson and his staff to submit the report for review by the governors of Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia and the District of Columbia commissioners.

Several Nearing Completion Now

With 1963 rapidly drawing to a close, an all-out effort is being made by Potomac Edison to complete its approximately $9 million program of line and substation construction for the year.

Despite unexpected difficulty on several projects, the construction program is generally on schedule.

PE officials said several major projects are expected to be completed shortly and others will be placed in service before the end of the year.

Among major projects currently under way are construction of a 34,500-volt line to serve a new AT&T installation on Hearthstone Mountain near Clear Spring and a new 34,500-volt line from Corriganville to Hyndman, Pa.

A number of major projects in this year's $9 million budget already have been completed.

One of them is the 47-mile 138,000-volt line from the Albright generating station in Preston County, W. Va., to Fort Ashby, W. Va., and a 138,000-volt tap of this line to serve the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company mill at Luke.

Also completed this year is a 138,000-volt line from Junction to Moorefield, W. Va., being operated now at 34,500-volt capacity.

City Officials To Meet With HHFA Staffers

Three city officials will go to Philadelphia tomorrow for a conference with officials of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Making the trip will be Mayor Earl D. Chaney, City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Several items are to be discussed with staffers of the federal.

The first conference will be with the Urban Renewal Administration. City officials will deliver to agency officials a copy of the contract executed Monday by the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency.

Officials want to make sure that the pact, which deals with the use the agency will make of funds set aside for planning the Center of the City general neighborhood Renewal Project, is complete.

The second conference will be with the staff which administers the Accelerated Public Works program and will deal with a proposal for obtaining funds, especially for the rehabilitation of the Lake Gordon gate chamber and installation of a pumping station at the reservoir. Attempts will be made to work out a technical legal difficulty encountered during the city's application for matching federal funds for the project.

City officials will also try, during this second conference, to get pledges of Accelerated Public Works funds for other projects here.

Schools Serve Western Lunch

Boys and girls in the public schools of Allegany County will be taken on another "trip" through food Thursday when the school cafeterias feature a western luncheon, according to Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, county supervisor of cafeterias.

The suggested menu for Thursday calls for hot tamale pie, orange glazed carrots, California salad, whole wheat and white bread and butter, chocolate brownie pudding and milk. Previously this fall the cafeterias have featured New England, southern and midwestern luncheons.

Mrs. Eaton also reported yesterday that the participation in the annual pre-Thanksgiving turkey dinner served last Tuesday was off about 5.8 per cent from last year.

Some 13,474 pupils were served the turkey dinners November 26 compared with 14,307 in November 1962.

Memorial Fund Aids 20 Families

Through a memorial fund for the late Mrs. Annie Yoder of Pinto, a little Thanksgiving cheer, in the form of turkeys, was made possible for 20 families in the immediate community.

Mrs. Yoder died October 9, and the fund was started instead of having flowers at the funeral. It is administered by her children. They are Freda Livengood, Pinto; Mrs. Rhoda Dayton, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.; Mrs. Harry J. Barton, McMullen Highway; Mrs. Carlton Helmick, Pinto; Mrs. Robert Johnson, Pinto; Mrs. Wesley Collins, Sarasota, Fla., Walter N. Yoder, Paul N. Yoder, Pinto, and Norman Yoder, Hollidaysburg, Pa.

CUF Reaches 97.8 Per Cent Of 1963 Goal

Six Divisions Surpass Quotas

Paced by six divisions which surpassed their goals, the seventh County United Fund campaign rolled to 97.8 per cent of its mark yesterday as an official audit disclosed that a total of $385,831.45 has been contributed.

Overall target for the once-a-year, one-gift United appeal is $394,533.

Walter E. Dyck, manager of Works 7 of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and general campaign chairman, enthusiastically remarked that only $8,701.55 is needed to meet the 1963 goal, which was established after a careful study of the needs of the 28 participating health, social service and youth character building agencies was made.

He extended his congratulations and "thanks for a job well done" by the six divisions that exceeded their marks.

He commended the Big 7 Industrial Employes Division for making 102.6 per cent of its $150,000 goal, or $158,771.60; the Cumberland Golden Gifts Division, which realized 100.9 per cent of its goal, or $126,187.23; the Frostburg Classified Division for 118.7 per cent of its goal, or $5,578; Frostburg Golden Gifts Division for 108.3 per cent, or $8,123; Tri-Towns Classified Division for 106.7 per cent, or $1,333.14, and the Keyser Business Division, for 101.3 per cent, or $1,519.

Mr. Dyck indicated all that was needed now to reach the 1963 goal was for campaign leaders and CUF representatives to contact consistent CUF givers who have not yet been contacted.

"If this is done," Mr. Dyck said, "we will reach or even surpass the goal figure." He urged all workers to complete their tasks this week.

On the basis of yesterday's audit, one CUF campaign area surpassed its target. Frostburg area is leading in competition for the Ort Achievement Award trophy, won two years in a row by Cumberland, with 105.9 per cent of its goal with a total of $14,917.

Mr. Dyck cited the community service rendered in the campaign by the Frostburg United appeal leader and givers.

Snow Flurries, Cold Weather Forecast Today

Light snow fell in both counties early yesterday morning and road crews were on the job applying abrasives on bad spots on grades and curves.

The SRC had two men patrolling roads in Allegany County last night and crews in Garrett County were standing by in case problems arose.

The forecast for today calls for colder weather, with the highs to range in the upper 20s in this section.

Yesterday the mercury reached a high of 40 degrees in Cumberland, and late last night it was dropping near the freezing mark.

Snowflurries and cold temperatures also are forecast today for nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Naval Reserve Training Applications Due Soon

Area college students who wish to apply for Reserve Officer Candidate (ROC) training in the U.S. Naval Reserve have less than two weeks to submit advance applications.

These are due by December 15 but the completed applications are not required until next February 28.

The ROC program provides college students an opportunity to earn commissions before their graduation dates by attending two training periods of eight weeks each during summer vacations. Full pay and allowances, tuition, books, fees and room and board are furnished during both training periods as is travel allowance both ways between the student's home and Newport, R.I., site of the ROC Training School.

To be eligible, the student must be in his freshman, sophomore or junior year at college, must be making satisfactory progress in his work there and must qualify mentally and physically. It is not necessary that the applicant be a member of the Naval Reserve. However, if accepted, he must enlist in the Reserve before his first period of ROC training is scheduled.

College students of the Tri-State area who wish to obtain application forms, instructions or further information are advised to act immediately to insure the meeting of the established deadline dates. For assistance, they may call or visit the U.S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, McKaig's Hill, PA 2-0970.

First Tracts Acquired For Rocky Gap Park

The first two properties needed for the proposed Rocky Gap State Park about six miles east of Cumberland have been acquired by the state for use of the Department of Forests and Parks.

Nearly 420 acres are included in the properties purchased by the state from Lester Raines and Bessie V. Raines, his wife, and Andrew N. McLuckie and Rebecca M. McLuckie, his wife.

The Raines property, a 187-acre farm in four different parcels, was sold through a deed filed for record November 18 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The McLuckie property, nearly 233 acres in three tracts, was included in a deed filed for record at the Court House Monday. Both farms are along Baltimore Pike and near its intersection with the Beans Cove Road, also known as the Pleasant Valley Road.

Acquisition of the properties by the state was handled by Paul W. Barnett, attorney.

The Rocky Gap State Park on the western slope of Martin Mountain has been a prime project of the Route 40 Association. Officials of the State Department of Forests and Parks, particularly William Parr, state supervisor of parks, have met with the Route 40 group to discuss the park on a number of occasions.

Rainfall Is Above Average In November

The total rainfall in Cumberland during November was 4.37 inches, according to the Weather Bureau, which indicated the amount was 1.09 inches over the November average.

The average daily temperature was 45.0 degrees which is 4.2 degrees above normal.

K. R. Taylor, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geological Survey of the U. S. Department of the Interior, said the observed mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River in Cumberland (the Wiley Ford gauge) during the month was 341 cubic feet per second or 220 million gallons per day which is 61 per cent of the 34 year November average.

The daily flow varied between 134 cubic feet per second or 86.6 million gallons per day on November 28 and 1,670 cfs (1,079 mgd) on November 8.

An equivalent of 9.9 cfs (6.4 mgd) was released from storage at the Savage River reservoir which is 2.9 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

Due to weather conditions which will affect the stream flow in this area in the form of ice and snow, no review of conditions will be made for the next three or four months, said Mr. Taylor.

Appeal Filed For Business

George Posselt, 1220 Frederick Street, has appealed to the Board of Zoning Appeals for permission to occupy Lots 49-53 in the 800 block of Frederick for business use.

His occupancy permit application included plans for constructing a two-story building, 50 by 25 feet, upon the property located in a Residential B zone.

In a letter read to the Mayor and Council Monday, Mr. Posselt argued that the area should be zoned for commercial purposes.

He said the 300-foot section located directly across from the Schmidt Bakery, is nothing more than a hillside and not adaptable for private residence but, due to its proximity to other businesses across the street, is a logical location for a neighborhood type of shopping center.

After the meeting, Mr. Posselt met with city officials who were reported sympathetic to his request.

The opinion was expressed, an informed source said, that the area in question will probably be classed as commercial when the proposed new zoning ordinance is adopted.

Opposition For Seneca Dam Seen Strong

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal for a high dam at Seneca, Md., a key recommendation for development of the Potomac River Basin, is expected to meet some strong opposition in Congress.

The Seneca dam and reservoir project — Seneca is roughly 15 miles upstream from Washington — is included in recommendations which the Board of Army Engineers for rivers and harbors sent to Lt. Gen. W. K. Wilson, chief of Army Engineers on Monday.

The board concurred in general with the development plan as formulated by the District and Division Engineers and which was made public last spring.

Virginia's senators, Harry F. Byrd and A. Willis Robertson, Democrats, have long opposed the high dam and its flooding of some 44,000 acres in Virginia and Maryland.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D - Va., said he also is opposed to the project.

"It would drown out too much land," he said, adding that he believes the answer lies in smaller dams upstream and on the Potomac's tributaries.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., said he is very much opposed to the Seneca proposal. He said it would flood one of the richest valleys in the world. He said he believes Washington can be supplied adequately with water by a series of smaller dams.

The over-all plan would cost about $500 million and would include 16 major reservoirs. They would be built over a series of years extending into the next century.

The first to be built is one already authorized by Congress, the Bloomington, Md., reservoir, whose recommended completion date is 1965 and whose estimated cost is $51 million.

Object of the plan is to meet municipal water needs and to provide flood protection.

The dam and reservoir project, estimated to cost $117 million, is recommended for completion in 1977.

There are several steps remaining before the plan reaches congress for possible authorization. The next step is for Wilson and his staff to submit the report for review by the governors of Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia and the District of Columbia commissioners.

Zoning Board To Hear Appeals

The Board of Zoning Appeals will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in City Hall to hear two occupancy appeals.

The first was filed by Irving Millenson, 20 South Centre Street, who has applied for a permit to construct a one or two-story medical office building at the corner of Fayette and Chase streets.

The building, he said, would be 50 by 170 feet and be of brick or stone construction. It would be located in a Residential B zone.

The second was filed by Ralph E. Klavuhn, 633 Yale Street, who has applied for permission to continue to use a 45-by-100-foot lot on Yale Street to park and turn trucks arriving and departing from his place of business on the opposite side of the street.
